007 Is Number 7?

I was very disappointed with the top 100 games section in your 100th issue. GoldenEye 007 at number 77? How can a game—after being in stores for just one month—be listed as one of the best games of all time?

Dawn Wisniewski

Via the Internet

We're not the only ones who love this game. Read on to find out how GoldenEye 007 could very well be one of the best games ever.

The Man with the Golden Game

I rented GoldenEye the movie, then, after watching it, I played the game. This is the best game I have played ever—hands down. GoldenEye 007 lives up to the hype. It follows the movie very closely and the graphics are so real, that it is actually like being James Bond. It's nice that Nintendo is catering a little more to the adult crowd. I'm a 32 year old staff accountant, but that doesn't mean I don't like to have fun. I was beginning to think that Nintendo produced only games for the kiddie crowd.

Scott Lawrence

James Neely • Corvallis, Oregon

I'm a freshman at Oswego State University, and every one of the twenty plus people in our dorm floor has been enthralled by the four-player mode of GoldenEye 007. It is the best multi-player game ever. I've had to kick scores of people out of my room so that I could get some studying done. I'm seriously considering starting a GoldenEye Anonymous Association for their own good. My roommate was so stunned by the realism of the game, that, when he walked down our dorm hallway, he had to check over his shoulder twice to make sure no one had a grenade launcher (our weapon of choice) pointed at his head.

Dave Erhardt
Oswego, NY

Is GoldenEye 007 the best game of the year? I believe it is. First, it's not your typical shoot-'em-up game where you blast everything in sight. There is an adventure element and there are tasks that you must complete—not just finding a key to the next level. And even though the game has cheat codes, you have to earn them, and, even then, you can use them only in the levels you've already completed.

Game Experts • St. Francis, Ontario

Ben Magee
Via the Internet

GoldenEye 007 blows Mario out of the water. Super Mario 64 was a great game, but I think it was too easy and didn't have any replay value. GoldenEye, on the other hand, is the best game ever. It has three diffculty levels—hard, harder and impossible. And since you have to earn the codes, the average gamer can't become the braggart of the school. The game keeps you honest and can be played over and over again.

Kyle Sawyer
Via the Internet

It would be happy to hear all this praise, but just to show that we're fair, here's the only negative letter regarding GoldenEye 007 that we could scrape up.

I think that GoldenEye 007 is lame. The graphics are cool, but the game is lame. You get shot by lasers and every other weapon in the world, but it takes forever for their hits to take you out. I just think the game should be more realistic.

Paul Bolon
Brownsville, CA

Since when was James Bond about realism? After appearing in movies for 35 years, 007 has dodged bullets a ridiculous number of times (and his hair NEVER gets messed up). If Bond was about realism he wouldn't have any of those groovy gadgets and he'd have been shot up into a piece of Swiss cheese with bad hair already. How funny that!

Apocalypse Now?

I'm writing this on October 1, 1997, and according to the programmers of Crystalis, today is the day when we will all perish from a nuclear apocalypse. I decided that I had better write you one last message. Your ratings of games are

POWER CHARTS

1997 ends with the man with the golden gun meeting the chutz with the golden balloons. The DKR team makes a strong debut on December's Power Charts, but Bond stealthily keeps the speed demons at bay with his gadgets and guns. But don't fret, Diddy Kong Racers—there's always next year!

NINTENDO 64 TOP 10

1 GOLDENEYE 007

Bond can handle Trevelyan and Jaws, but is he quicker than Diddy and Timbar? DKR, in its Power Chart debut, talgates 007, while another speedy newcomer, Top Gear Rally, rounds out the pack.

MOST WANTED

In your 100 Other Things list you said that there were probably only 100 people who ran out to see the Super Mario Bros. movie. I loved that movie, and I still don't know why people didn't like it.

Brian Caswell
Osteo, MI

100 also equals the number of people who had to be killed in order to keep people from running out of the movie.

Star Finances

At the end of Star Fox 64, when it shows the bill that you give to General Pepper, I figured out that for every enemy ship that you turn into recycling material, you get $64. Very funny, Nintendo. So, if you earned a gold medal in every area by shooting down the mission required ships (which is 2,400 enemies), you would earn $153,600!!! What would the Star Fox team do with all that money???

Joshua Nichols

According to the Star Fox story, James McCloud never finished paying for his giant space cruiser, the Great Fox. After James's demise, Fox not only got to lead his father's team, but he also got stuck with an enormous debt.

NP Goes to the Mat

To commemorate their new N64 wrestling game, WCW Vs. NWO: World Tour, our friends at THQ invited all of us at NP to a night of WCW wrestling in Seattle. Before witnessing the bigger-than-life, big time matches, we tried out the video game and mingled with the wrestlers. How does THQ's game measure up to the real thing? After watching WCW and NWO brawlers such as "Macho Man" Randy Savage, The Giant, Rey Mysterio Jr., and Último Dragon in action, we can declare (in our gruffest voice) that THQ's game, complete with the wrestlers' signature moves, taunts and teases, has wrestling pinned down.

Mr. Gunpei Yokoi, the creator of Game & Watch, Virtual

Mr. Yokoi was an extraordinary man with extraordinary ideas, and he was the "power" behind the games that we play with. Mr. Yokoi dedicated his entire professional career to Nintendo and the gaming world, and he left behind a great legacy of inventions. We'll always miss the man and the power of his vision.

DIDDY KONG RACING™

RACING

Trademark of Nintendo. ©1997 Rare.
Diddy Kong, Banan and Krunch characters inspired by Nintendo.

Last month we introduced you to Diddy Kong Racing, the unique adventure on wheels (not to mention on water and wings) from Rare. Now it's time to take the wheel and punch the pedal. This month's review will put you on track to win the Gold Balloon Challenge.

Taj the Elephant

It all begins in the center of Timber's Island. That's where you'll meet Taj, a gem-slash-blue elephant who wants to stop the dreaded Wispig, but who needs your help to do it. Taj can give you any of the three vehicles, but he'll also challenge you to races throughout the adventure. When you win a race, Taj will be there to award you a Gold Balloon. Since you need to collect Gold Balloons in order to open the doors to the racecourses, you need to get as many as you can. We're here to help you get the gold.

Gold Balloon Challenge

The Gold Balloon Challenge is the first of many challenges in Diddy Kong Racing. From the outer island, you can enter four worlds, each with four Gold Balloon Challenge races on separate tracks. If you take first place in a race, you'll win the Gold Balloon from Taj. After winning on all four tracks, you'll face an added challenge from the boss character of that world. It's just the beginning of the adventure.

When you want to change your vehicle, challenge Taj, or change an option, you have to get Taj's attention. You can drive up to the elephant and hit him, or get close and hank your horn. Taj prefers the second method.

Silver Coin Challenge

After clearing every race in a world, and defeating the boss, you'll be given a new task: completing the Silver Coin Challenge. Eight silver coins appear on each track. Your mission, if you choose to accept it, is to pick up each of the coins and win the race. It's not as easy as it sounds since the coins often appear in difficult-to-reach locations that take you off the beaten path.

Silver Coins are seldom found in the fastest lane. You have to find ways to reach them without sacrificing speed or position. We're leaving this challenge up to you—at least for now.

Once you collect all the coins, and end up in first place, Taj will show up to award you even more Gold Balloons.

Boss Challenge

After completing the final race in a world, you'll automatically face the boss character. These guys run, fly or swim, but they don't use vehicles and they often present other obstacles for you to overcome. Some of the boss courses are one-way, while others require you to race the standard three laps. You'll meet each of these characters after completing the Silver Coin Challenge, as well, and they'll be even tougher than in the first race.

Boss characters hog the track. Just passing them can be a major problem. Fortunately, you can turn to page 24 for help.

Bop 'Til You Drop

Missiles

Missiles are found in Red Balloons. One Red Balloon gets you a single shot that fires straight ahead. Two Red Balloons earn you a Homing Missile and three balloons score a battery of ten missiles. Vehicles hit by a missile will be stopped, but only for a short while.

Droppers

Droppers are items that you drop on the track to slow down opponents. You'll get an oil slick with one Green Balloon. Two Greenies give you a spiked mine and three turn the dropper into a bubble. Place droppers where they can't be avoided—around corners or on top of speed zippers.

Magnets

The magnets are hidden inside Rainbow Balloons. A magnet pulls your vehicle up to the one ahead of you. When you use the item, you'll see a cross hair appear on the target vehicle if it's within the magnet's range. Two or three Rainbow Balloons extend the magnet's range.

Special Boosts

Blue Balloons contain speed boosts. If you collect two or three Blue Balloons, your boost becomes that much more powerful. Boosts can put you solidly in the lead, but you have to be careful where you use them. If you boost on a corner, you might end up in a lake.

Shields

In the Yellow Balloon is where you'll find shields for your vehicle. Shields prevent you from being attacked by missiles, droppers, or other hazards, such as snowballs, that might befall you. Shields also disrupt other racers if they touch your vehicle while the shield is activated.

Bananas

Unlike the bananas found in Mario Kart 64, DKR's bananas increase your vehicle's top speed. You can collect up to ten of the yellow yummys to reach maximum power on each course, but the effects last only as long as the one race.

Timber's Island Motors

Cars

Every Gold Balloon Challenge has one set type of vehicle for the drivers. (In multiplayer and time trial modes, or the track mode, you can choose from any available vehicle.) The most unusual aspect of racing with cars is the power slide, similar to the slide in Mario Kart 64. Using the power slide (simply push the R Button when you initiate a turn) you'll retain your speed and be able to cut corners.

Select the speedometer to check out your top speed. Each vehicle's top speed depends on the track surface and the character behind the wheel.

Planes

Racing planes is the ultimate in 3-D racing. Not only do you navigate from left to right, but up and down, as well. The R Button lets you turn sharply or perform rolls. Planes have the advantage of being able to cut across many corners, fly over obstacles and use every type of zipper. The disadvantage is that, when you hit something in a plane, it really drops you out of contention.

Planes can fly just about anywhere, but sometimes you must pilot them through narrow openings like this.

Hovercraft

Water courses, and a few other tricky courses like the boss challenges against Bluey the walrus and Bubbler the octopus, put you in the seat of a racing hovercraft. The turning controls can be almost instantaneous, depending on which driver you choose. Hovercraft are certainly the trickiest of the three vehicles to drive, but they do give you the advantage of being able to hop using the R Button.

In a hovercraft, you can drive over water or any land surface, which lets you make shortcuts that cars can't take.

Furry, Fearless Drivers

Diddy Kong

Diddy is the hero of the game because he can do everything well. His speed and acceleration are both good, and he can handle any vehicle with skill. He came to Timber's Island when he got a letter from Timber the tiger telling him about the troubles with the Wizzig. Diddy couldn't resist the challenge.

Krunch

Krunch may be a Kremling, but he doesn't like the thought of the Wizzig upstaging Captain K. Rool. So he's doing his best to free the island from racing tyranny. Krunch, as the heaviest character, has slower acceleration and poor handling, but his top speed is unsurpassed. He's a good choice for hovercraft courses.

Timber

Timber's family used to rule the island before the Wizzig began hogging all the race tracks. He's determined to bring the big pig to justice. He's well equipped to do it, too, with very solid handling. His acceleration, top speed and weight are all in the middle range.

Conker

Conker the courageous squirrel is biding time until his own game comes out next year, but in the meanwhile he has a thing or two to prove. His attributes are identical to Timber's, making him a solid racer in any vehicle.

Pipsy

Pipsy rules. She may seem like a light-weight, but when it comes to handling and acceleration, this mousey miss can thrash the rest of them. Her top speed is only medium, but she can make up for that with boosts and zippers. In a hovercraft, her light weight makes handling tricky for all but the most persistent mouse fans.

Banjo

Like Conker, Banjo is sort of hanging out on Timber's Island while his own game gets polished for release. The happy-go-lucky honey bear has good handling for a heavy guy, but his acceleration is what you would expect from a bear. On the other hand, Banjo has excellent top-end speed for straightaways.

Bumper

Bumper the badger breaks from the time-honored badger traditions of burrowing and sleeping twenty hours a day. This fellow lives for speed. Although all of his stats put him in the middle range, he has good handling in every vehicle. With Bumper, you may never need to choose another driver.

TipTop

TipTop, like Pipsy, doesn't have the weight to hold a hovercraft down, but in all other vehicles and conditions, he can race circles around the heavier racers. His acceleration and handling are tip top and his top speed is medium. He may be a little bit nervous on the race track, but you can calm him down with practice.

Dino Domain

Ancient Lake

Even the simplest track like Ancient Lake can turn up surprises. The biggest surprise here comes from the dinosaur who crosses the road. Why? To smash your car, of course. If you miss the dinosaur and hit the zippers, you'll leave the other racers in your dust. You'd have to be a fossil to lose this race.

1 Blazing for Bananas

Get a boost off the starting line by hitting the gas just as the starting announcement ends. Aim straight ahead at the group of three bananas and grab a couple.

2 Shoot or Boost?

Farther down the track, you have to make a choice between picking up nitro siles or speed boosts. Grab the Blue Balloon and shoot into the lake.

3 Zip to Glory

Cross the zipper on the inside of the track to get a huge boost. Get ready to power slide around the corner ahead.

4 Dino Steps

As you enter the lake area, watch out for the dinosaur who crosses the road. He moves slowly, but never try to pass beneath this big boy.

Fossil Canyon

With a mere two Gold Balloons, you can enter Fossil Canyon and face a greater challenge than the Ancient Lake course. This track requires precise steering and power slides. A sharp driver will also find several daring shortcuts. If you win the race in Ancient Lake, you'll line up at the far left in the pole position, perfectly lined up with a zipper.

1 Pole Position

Your starting position often gives you an advantage. A first place finish in your previous race gets you the pole position. In this race, you'll be lined up to drive straight across the first zipper.

2 Over Water

After boosting over the second zipper, drive straight ahead toward the lake. On the track's shoulder is a zipper that shoots you across the water.

3 The Torch Turn

The turn in the tunnel seems difficult at first. Use your power slide technique (holding the Right button) beginning just after the wall torch.

4 Hang a Left

After the tunnel, and beyond the stone arch, you'll notice a rough road splitting off to the left. Take it. The shortcut will help put you in the lead.

Jungle Falls

Things really begin to heat up when you enter Jungle Falls with three Gold Balloons. The first hurdle comes right at the start, where you must make a sharp turn to the left, then another to the right to hit a zipper. Tunnels and shortcuts also enter into the picture. Luckily, you'll find plenty of items to help you boost yourself or bop your enemies.

Make an immediate power slide to the left at the start to avoid the lake. Then, as you race toward the wall, make a second power slide to the right and hit the zipper.

2 A Bunch of Boosts

Grab the Blue Balloon in front of the zipper, then hit the zipper for a boost. That blue boost should be used for extra speed up to and over the bridge.

3 Zip on an Angle

As you leave the tunnel, aim for the left side of the track and the zipper. As you hit the zipper, aim to the right of the leaning stone structure ahead in order to miss a pond.

4 The Skull Boost

Drive beneath the skull to find this hidden zipper. If you hit it squarely, you'll be lined up to boost between the ribs of dino ribs. You can also go to the right of the ribs for a shortcut.

Hot Top Volcano

If you play straight through Dino Domain, Hot Top Volcano will be your first race in a plane. Get set for a wild ride. The lava and flames in the volcano may look terrifying, but they won't affect your performance. Hitting walls, however, will slow you down dramatically. If you stay away from the rocks, you'll blow the top off this course.

1 Twin Tunnels, One Choice

The right tunnel contains a Blue Balloon, which, when combined with the Blue Balloon that you can collect just before the tunnel, can give you a mighty boost in the race ahead. Any time you can combine boosts, do it.

2 A Narrow Scrape

You can hang close to the right wall and squeeze through a shortcut if you like, or use your double boost in the wide passage to the left.

3 Air Zipping

On the left side of the passage, you'll come to a circular or zipper. Head straight into it and get a boost toward the tunnel ahead.

4 Dino Dodging

The final chamber has a dinosaur and two zippers. You should be able to fly through both zippers for a huge boost toward the finish line.

Snowflake Mountain

Everfrost Peak

If you don't head immediately to Dino Domain, it's possible to pick up a few Cold Balloons on Timber's Island and fly to Snowflake Mountain for your first race. The Peak is where you'll begin. It's a thrilling, chilly flight.

1 The Squeeze Play

Off the starting line, if you're in the position on the far left, you can blast down the canyon, pass between the wall and the tree, and get a Blue Balloon for a boost.

2 Zip and Cut

Enter the air zipper heading slightly up and to the left. You'll boost up and over the corner of the cliff for a shortcut.

3 The Dipping Tunnel

Grab one of the Blue Balloons before the tunnel, then stay along the right wall to catch the air zipper. The biggest danger is flying too high so that you hit the ceiling.

4 Touchdown

Ground zippers are for planes, too. Skim the ground and touch down briefly on the zipper to earn a boost.

Walrus Cove

Lots of turns can burn you in this winding course, and frigid Walrus-infested waters will slow you down if you go wading. But if you make good use of Blue Balloons and a special shortcut at the end of the track, you'll cruise to victory. With three Cold Balloons, you can enter this course and make it your own.

1 The Loop

The icy loop near the beginning has a secret feature. It automatically scooters every car just like a zipper or airboat. Since you pick up a Blue Balloon just before the loop, save it until later.

2 Double Zippers

Power slide onto the bridge, then hug the right rail to get the first zipper. Then angle across to the left railing for the bonus boost on the second zipper.

3 Leaving the Cave

This zipper is located close to the left wall following a right-hand turn. Power slide around the corner in order to get the zip.

4 The Ultimate Shortcut

On the track corner, stay to the left and take the left branch when you see it split off. Head straight into the zipper or you'll hit the water.

Snowball Valley

With two main routes to take and giant snowballs to dodge, Snowball Valley is a very hairy, if not scary, race. You'll face several dangers, not the least of which is the danger of your fellow racers knocking you into water or the path of a snowball.

1 Which Way to Go

The choice is yours. To the right you'll have a straight shot and a long drop. It's a bit longer, but it's safer. Or go left and wind through a narrow tunnel. That's the expert route.

2 Stuck in the Ice

The tunnel route gives you a shot at two Blue Balloons, and it's shorter than the cliff route, but it's very narrow.

3 Snowball Terror

The giant snowballs are pretty scary, but you can foil their flustering ways by picking up and activating a shield item in the arch that leads into the valley.

4 The Final Push

Take the zipper to blast out of the gloom tunnel, then grab the Blue Balloons on the track for an extra boost across the finish line.

Frosty Village

There's a little bit of everything on this course, including a shortcut and a longcut. For such a long track, you have to use some subtle tactics to gain the winning edge. Whatever you do, stay out of the deep snow unless you have extra boosters or are using zippers.

1 The Central Arch

When you cross the first zipper, aim straight ahead at the central arch in the snow. You don't. Once you're through the arch, angle left and aim at the tree near the tunnel's end.

2 The Tunnel Turns

Stay along the right wall of the tunnel to pick up the bananas when you first enter, then power slide around to the left in order to line up your car with the zipper around the first bend.

3 A Critical Zip

This tricky zipper sneaks up on you. Take a straight line across the cave and turn right onto the zipper as you exit.

4 Shoot The Shore

The final zipper on the course can be the race winner. When you power slide out from under the arch, you should be headed to the left. Let go of the slide before you hit the lake and you'll boost off the zipper.

Sherbet Island

Whale Bay

Ten Gold Balloons will get you into the fun and sun of the Whale Bay hovercraft race. It's a new experience, bouncing over waves, dodging whales and spinning on a top in the squirmly hovercraft. You may want to choose a heavy driver for these watery courses. Their slower turning rate may make things easier.

1 Hit the Beach

The tightest corner you can make at this end of the course forces you onto the sandy beach. That's okay! Hop right up and aim at the Rainbow Balloon.

2 A Whale of a Tale

Head straight for the whale near the pirate ship. It will rise out of the water, forming a ramp for you with its back. Drive up its back and hop onto the ship's deck, then head to the left.

3 Once on Deck

4 A Misdirected Zipper

The final water zipper points you a bit too far to the right. Once you've boosted through the zipper, steer back to the left.

Pirate Lagoon

If you've collected the booty of 13 Gold Balloons, you can seek your fortune in Pirate Lagoon. The many sharp turns on this course will test your skill with a hovercraft like never before, and the long stretches of open water can make even the crabbiest driver vulnerable to a speedster. You'll need a nearly perfect race.

1 Zig Zag Zip

Grab a Blue Balloon from the first island, then veer to the left and shoot through the water zipper. After the zipper, use the boost to take the lead.

2 Sharp Shooting

A sharp turn at the end of the first straightaway sets you up for a straight shot through the second water zipper.

3 A Blast in the Tunnel

Pick up the Blue Balloon on the right side of the tunnel entrance and use it to boost your hovercraft down the tunnel.

4 Ramp It Up

If you pass through this zipper aimed at the ramp ahead, you'll fly over the rocky outcrop and shave precious seconds from your lap time.

Crescent Island

Racing in paradise isn't as easy as it might seem. You'll drive through an old pirate wreck and collect a ton of missiles. Everyone is a fair target, even you. You'll need all the speed you can muster, and be sure to boost your top speed by collecting the maximum ten bananas.

The straight shot and zipper on the left branch make that path safest for beginners, but the right track is shorter.

2 The Rail Road

Don't miss this zip along the wood on rail before you reach the pirate ship. As you go up the gangplank, grab the bananas and Red Balloons.

3 Power Prates

Power slide to the left from the gangplank on to the ship's deck, then power slide to the right as you head down into the hold. When your car is pointed fully into the curve, release the power slide and you'll be going straight.

4 The Hole in the Wall

On the final turn, look to the right. You'll see a narrow gap in the rock wall where you can just duck through with a skillful power slide. You can even brake here and save time.

Treasure Caves

The second road race in the islands takes place through the notorious Treasure Caves where pirate wrecks litter the reefs. Since you'll probably start out back in the pack, missiles will become an important way to clear the track ahead of you. If you stick with it, though, you can recover a lot of ground on this course.

1 Cross to the Zipper

This is a tough course to get started on since the pole position puts you on the opposite side of the track from the first zipper. Let it go on the first lap unless you are on the right side.

2 Power to the Zipper

Start a Power Slide to the left before you hit this zipper so that you boost up toward the cave mouth.

3 Cross Track

Aim toward the tunnel entrance ahead as you cross the zipper in the cavern area. Your course should take you across the track to the right and along the back tunnel wall to the last zipper.

4 Zip Along the Wall

Power slide to the left across this last zipper to avoid hitting the wall beyond it. If you hit it straight, you'll scrape the wall on the right.

Dragon Forest

Windmill Plains

Air races like this give pilots plenty of opportunities for finding shortcuts. You can cut across curves and fly over obstacles, staying to the straightest course possible. You can also make use of ground zippers by touching down briefly and getting the boost.

1 Windmill Thrill Seekers

Chooos are you'll be lined up at the starting line with a windmill dead ahead. Dive beneath the windmill and touch the zipper to get the boost. You'll also pick up a Rainbow Balloon.

After passing through the air zipper, cut straight across the valley to the tunnel and bypass the road route.

2 Slice Off the Corner

3 Windmill of Terror

Passing under the second windmill is fraught with danger. You must be lined up with the windmill's door when you hit the air zipper or you'll crash into the wall.

4 Cruise to the Canyon

Cut across the lake area, heading straight to the zipper. The zipper spots you out in the canyon where you can get a boost or misses.

Greenwood Village

The village turns out to be one of the most challenging courses in DKR. Your greatest advantage comes from the wishing well in the town square, which conceals a shortcut to the woods. The right-angle turns at the end require power slides a plenty and hard-to-reach zippers.

1 Drop Down the Well

Boost over the first zipper, then head for the little well. Just before you reach it, take your finger off the gas for just a moment. At the bottom is a shortcut.

2 Blast in the Woods

In the tunnel beneath the well, you'll pick up two bananas and boost back onto the track using a zipper.

3 Shortcut, I Don't Think So

The tunnel track off to the left of the main route is a shortcut. When you hit the zipper in the tunnel, head straight toward the Red Balloon and give the shortcut a miss.

4 Power Through the Village

Begin your power slides well before the corners in the village. The right angles are unforgiving unless you are out ahead of them. If you master this, you'll be off the zippers.

Boulder Canyon

Hovercraft courses are never easy, but you can give yourself a break by choosing a heavy driver. Lightweight drivers are far more challenging. Look for Blue Balloons throughout the course. The boost in speed you get should be enough to take you to the checkered flag.

1 Blue Boosts are Best

Pick up all the Blue Balloons on the first stretch of the river course and use them immediately to take the lead.

2 The Drawbridge

If you're in front, you don't have to worry about the drawbridge opening. But if another racer hits the bell, watch out for the race!

3 Two Tunnel Trivia

Which tunnel is shortest? Which is fastest? The tunnel that begins on the right side is longer but proves to be the fastest route since it dumps you out near a zipper and a Blue Balloon.

4 Zippers on the Left

The zippers are found along the left side of the river stretch, but the bananas are set on the right shore. Concentrate on the zippers.

Haunted Woods

The Haunted Woods may sound scary, but it won't frighten a racing pro who has made it this far. Since there are so many dropper balloons available on the track, it pays to keep a sharp lookout for oil slicks, mines and bubbles, particularly in front of zippers and around corners. If you see a ghostly image of the Wizzig, don't worry.

1 Round and Round

The track goes around the central fountain to the right and left. If you continue your power slide around the first corner, you can take the left route to take the lead.

2 Two Tough Zips

Power slide with care as you line up your car with these zippers. On the second zipper, be sure to aim toward the middle of the arch.

3 The Blind Zipper

After your sprint through the woods, you'll come back to the castle. On the left side of the bridge, aim toward the Green Balloon on the left to hit the zipper just beyond it.

4 Final Flight

The final incline back up to the starting line can slow down any car. If you hit the zipper along the right wall, though, you'll literally fly up to the line.

The Boss Challenge

Tricky

Tricky the triceratops challenges you to a race up a mountain after you've aced the four races in Dino Domain. Stay out from under his feet, because he'll stomp nothing of flattening your car. The best strategy is to wait until the steep upper slope to make your move, because that's where Tricky gets tired and slows down.

2 Blast His Thick Skin

Pick up the missiles along the track and fire them at Tricky to slow him down. When you shoot, steer clear of him or he might stomp you.

3 Tunnel Through the Mountain

Two-thirds of the way up the mountain you'll pass a group of plants hiding a tunnel that cuts straight through the mountain. The shortcut can give you the lead.

1 Slow Start

If you get a jump start off the line and move out in front of Tricky, chances are the big dinosaur will stomp on you. It's better to stay close behind him at first.

Bluey

Bluey challenges you to a race down Snowflake Mountain after you win the four races in that world. Since you race in a hovercraft, you may prefer to change to a mediumweight or heavyweight driver. The strategy here is simple: take the lead and never look back.

1 Leaving the First Tunnel

If you get a solid jump start at the beginning and steer straight for the tunnel entrance, you should be in the lead. By hopping up just before the tunnel's exit, you can grab a Blue Balloon.

2 A Boost in the Trough

Just before the second tunnel, you'll enter a narrow trough, or half-pipe, and pick up a Blue Balloon. Use it before you enter the tunnel or after, but not inside.

Bubbler

The most difficult of the four boss characters has to be Bubbler, the octopus, who challenges you to a watery hovercraft race after you clear Sherbet Island. Not only is Bubbler fast, but he drops mines all over the place. If you get in front of him, you won't have to worry about the mines, but taking the lead won't be easy.

1 Skim the Shoreline

In this first area, Bubbler's mines seem to be everywhere. You can bypass them by slipping onto the shore.

2 A Shot in the Dark

The tunnel contains a missile. If you let Bubbler whizz by, he'll slow down dramatically and give you a chance to pick up some ground, or some water.

3 Boosts and Missiles

The islands on the back stretch contain Red Balloons and a Blue Balloon. If you grab the two Reds, you'll have a Homing Missile. If you've managed to stay close, one Homing shot can put you in a position to take the lead.

Smokey

The namesake of the Dragon Forest is Smokey, a fire-breathing dragon who challenges you to an aerial race through tunnels and valleys. Smokey's puffs of dragon breath can knock you out of the air, so avoid them at all costs.

1 The Start

Even the quickest start won't beat Smokey off the line. Stay behind him at first and dodge his smoke.

2 Dangerous Missiles

There are plenty of flame balloons to be found in the tunnels, but they're tucked behind stone pillars. It's best to avoid them and collect boosters later on.

3 Boosting to Victory

Grab the Blue Balloon under the waterfall and the ones in the valleys, then blow past Smokey. You can also gain ground by cutting corners. Smokey usually stays in the middle of the course, which isn't the shortest route.

THE 1ST 100 SHOTS OF

Zelda 64

Since the introduction of the N64 over a year ago, no single game has been so widely anticipated by so many gamers as Zelda 64. Shigeru Miyamoto has been cautious so far, not wanting to say too much, or to show too much. But when you put everything together that we've seen and heard, the total amount of Zelda info is impressive. In the following pages you'll see everything that we've seen and learn all that we know of the upcoming adventure. Many of these 100 screen shots have never been published before, so prepare yourself to be dazzled.

Zelda 64 takes players into a 3-D world like no other. Mr. Miyamoto stresses that the environment, the story and the action are designed to evoke emotional responses from players. The characters, created from 3-D wireframes like those, have far more means and flexibility than previous Zelda characters.

Link Comes of Age

The outline of the story for Zelda 64 comes straight from EAD, the chief game development department at Nintendo Company Ltd. in Kyoto, Japan. Although EAD considers everything "tentative" until the final version of a game is completed, much of what you read here will be a part of Mr. Miyamoto's greatest epic. Long ago, before Ganon stole the Triforce and kidnapped Zelda, Link set out to his coming-of-age ceremony in the Maze Woods. It was the custom of his tribe, the Kokiri family, that a young man would receive a guardian spirit or fairy who would stay beside him and guide him throughout his life. But as Link walked through the woods, he discovered that a monster had captured one such fairy. Gallantly, Link came to the rescue and defeated the monster, but the fairy was mortally wounded. In her dying breath, she warned Link not to allow Ganondorf to possess the Triforce and to seek out a wise man and his spiritual stone. At the same time, Ganondorf, the king of the thieves, was searching for the legendary Triforce so that he could steal its power. In time, Ganondorf stumbled into the Maze Woods and seized the secret place where the Triforce was kept. Link went to Hyrule Castle for help. Princess Zelda knew of the Triforce's hiding place, but to reach it they would have to first find three magical stones to unlock the secret. Thus begins the adventure.

According to Mr. Miyamoto, only about 20% of the enemies in Zelda 64 will have appeared in previous games. Some enemies they have new incarnations, like the Dodongo Jr. shown below. The enemies who will return are the most interesting ones from past games.

Hyrulean Heavies

Some of the enemies in and around Hyrule will seem familiar to Zelda fans of the previous games. The ghostly Wall Masters were first encountered in The Legend of Zelda along with the skeletal Sentries and Loovers. One of the strategic elements of all Zelda games has been that you have to use certain attacks to defeat particular enemies. For instance, the most efficient way to dispatch a Dodongo is to throw a bomb in its mouth. That will be true in Zelda 64, as well, but some of the attacks may vary and there will be plenty of new enemies. The Lizalfos, Gohma and Dodongo Jr. are just some of the new, 3-D monsters you'll meet. Enemies play many roles in Zelda 64, including the role of level guardian. Iron Knuckle was just such a terror in Zelda II for the NES, and he's back again. But even when enemies seem familiar, battling them in a 3-D world will present all-new challenges.

Places to See

Zelda games have always offered a wide variety of settings in which the action takes place, from forests to dungeons, and from castles to tropical shores. Zelda 64 should have the widest variety of all. We know that the settings include at least one substantial town, a forest maze, a desert, a swamp, a canyon, a farm, building interiors and dungeons. Many of the settings will include special lighting and fog effects to make them seem more realistic and to set a mood over the scene. Dramatic camera angles will also be used in some areas to create an almost cinematic effect. Setting the mood is one of Mr. Miyamoto's top priorities for the game. He wants it to be less stressful and more emotional, a game that plays like a story or movie unfolding. But with mysteries and monsters aplenty, we doubt that the concept of a stress-free Zelda will be realized. Don't throw away your stress balls just yet.

Miyamoto: "Since Zelda 64 takes place in a 3-D environment, it's not easy to compare it to previous Zelda games. I don't want players to be frustrated, so to avoid that we've created a new camera system and some secret movements for Link."

Zelda 64 should have the most advanced camera system of any N64 game to date. The idea is to enhance the experience and give players the epicurean perspective for playing in any area of the game.

As in previous Zelda games, Link makes use of traditional weapons such as swords, boomerangs, and bows and arrows. Players will select weapons from an inventory and assign them to Controller buttons. You will be able to have several active weapons at a time.

Link will have many attack animations, including overhead sword swings and the ability to fight while backing away from an enemy who is pressing. Players will also use magical spells and items during battle sequences.

The remaining enemies have their own moves for their particular weapons. In other words, you'll have to think a strategic battle rather than use a hit to technique. In particular, the range of attacks covered the type of weapon used and the location and number of hits that you must aim at your hapless foe.

The Face of Battle

No Zelda game would be complete without fierce battles against implacable monsters and Zelda 64 will maintain this heroic tradition. From the earliest screen shots we learned that Link will have many of his old weapons at hand: Swords, bows and arrows, bombs, shields and special items will be activated using various Controller buttons and using combinations of weapons will also be possible. Link will have full mobility during the battles, as well, allowing players to dodge, retreat, jump and move with analog precision (or varying speeds) to put Link in the best tactical position for attack. We also know that Navi, Link's fairy helper, will warn you of impending attacks from enemies, and that she will take an active role in defending and healing her young ward.

Link in Motion

Getting around in the hoarfro world of Hyrule has never been easy. In the first games, Link had to hoof it on his own most of the time. Later, he learned to catch a ride with a chicken and float on cots. But in Zelda 64, Link takes dramatic strides to improve his transportation situation, chiefly by being able to ride a horse. According to EAD, the horse's motion is so realistic that you feel as if you're in the saddle, sort of like playing a fancy Wave Race. There's also a suggestion that the horse may not always be your trusted steed. Perhaps you have to capture it and train it before you can ride it. Equine speculation aside, we also know that Link will have a full range of moves including the ability to hang from a suspension bridge, leap down from cliffs, run, walk, optoe, turn, back up and jump. It's also likely that he will swim and perform other feats. While you're moving about, you'll also feel the motion since Zelda 64 will make use of the Rumble Pak.

In the sample sequence, Link has to deal with a large obstacle in the form of a giant step. In previous games, such an obstacle would be impassable, but the new N64 Link just climbs right over it.

Just getting around in the complex 3-D world of Zelda 64 will require far more navigation and moves than in previous games.

Zelda games have always pushed the limits. In Zelda 64, you'll also have to push the walls, or pull them, in order to find secret rooms and hidden passages. One of the great things about the Zelda series is knowing that you get that anything could happen.

The addition of Link's horse is definitely a useful invention. For the use of a horse is not the ELD in itself, but the fact that it's a new mode of transportation. They don't ride the horse just to ride it, but to use it as a means of transport. It's not just a red horse, it's a horse that can be used to transport Link. It's not just a horse, it's a horse that can be used to transport Link.

Zelous!
THE 1st 100 SHOTS!

Miyamoto: "As you probably guessed, the main reason for the horse is as transportation. I also think that it's just a lot of fun to ride the horse around. In addition to Link's steed, you'll also find warps that transport Link instantly across the world."

The use of separate light sources produces realistic effects like the shadows shown in the screens above. Transparency effects create realistic water. With the combination of this with appropriate sound effects, the impression is magical.

Whether Link is walking, standing around, or fighting evil doors, he just looks animated. Link's movement is one of the main methods for creating a realistic environment.

Miyamoto: "In addition to the special camera system, we try to convey emotions using evocative music and sound effects."

From the perspective of the audience, the use of a special camera system is one of the main methods for creating a realistic environment. Mr. Miyamoto wants to convey emotions using evocative music and sound effects.

Behind the Screens

At a reported 256 megabits, Zelda 64 will be the largest game for the N64, doubling the largest current game on the market. Size alone may not mean much, except that Miyamoto's games are known for stuffing in quality, and every increase in size has also meant an increase in innovation and fun. Zelda 64 will also benefit from all the advances made over the past year in N64 game design. As a second or third generation game, Zelda 64 should exhibit some of the most stunning 3-D graphics ever seen. Our 100 shots demonstrate the level of detail if not the fluid animation, but we've also seen spectacular video sequences taken from the game that promise a dynamic and realistic gaming experience. Perhaps the most significant fact is that Mr. Miyamoto himself has been spending most of his time over the past six months on this title, and he never lets one of his projects out of the studio until it's a masterpiece.

Link makes use of more than 1000 textures than ever before. Here, he looks like he plays the acoustic guitar by himself. © Nintendo

Mysteries of the Ages

Zelda 64

THE 1st 100 SHOTS!

Zelda 64 promises to have many mysteries that players will have to solve.

Acquiring the three magical stones will be one task, but there will be many others, including side tasks that only indirectly relate to your main quest. One of the central themes of the game has to do with time. In fact, you will move backward and forward in time at different stages of the game.

During the earlier times, Link will appear as a boy of about ten years of age while in the later stages he is a heroic youth in his teens. Kid Link, as the EAD team calls him, will have special abilities and will be able to use certain items that teen Link won't be able to use. Other mysteries will include learning how to fight particular enemies, how to navigate through mazes and how to avoid traps. He'll have to deal with his fellow Hyuleans, as well, listening carefully to their stories and helping them from out of predicaments. Many Zelda fans feel that the mysteries are the best part of the games. Mr. Miyamoto believes that players will be surprised and delighted by the number and variety of puzzles in Zelda 64.

Link isn't a lone heroic figure. The land of Hyrule is filled with good and bad characters, and the good characters interact with Link, sharing information and asking for help.

Link is not the only character who will undergo change in this game. Dorender! the thief will become Ganax the evil mastermind by the end of the game.

◆ THE WAIT CONTINUES ◆

We won't be coy with you about the release date of this game. Although Zelda 64 is tentatively scheduled for release this spring in North America, everything depends on Mr. Miyamoto's assessment of the quality of the game. If he wants to spend an extra month or two fine-tuning Zelda 64, he'll get it. We may be disappointed by delays like this in the short term, but in the long run it means a better Zelda, and that is something that's worth the wait.

Chameleon

TWIST

JUST WHEN YOU THOUGHT THAT ALL VIDEO GAME CHARACTERS WERE STARTING TO ACT THE SAME, SUNSOFT INTRODUCES A BLUE CRITTER THAT LAPS UP BEWILDERING BADDIES IN TONGUE-TWISTING STAGES. BUT THIS ISN'T A GAME ABOUT REPEATING FUNNY PHRASES—IT'S AN ADVENTURE THROUGH A TWISTED WORLD, WHERE THE ULTIMATE WEAPON IS A LONG, STICKY TONGUE.

BASIC TRAINING

Your parents probably never approved of you sticking out your tongue and spitting, but it's a way of life in this twisted world. Training mode will teach you the skills for survival. As you progress, the training challenges will increase in difficulty, but these introductory puzzles are nothing compared to the challenges you'll encounter in later stages in your adventure.

TONGUE LASHING

Talk about lashing out at your enemies! By holding down the B Button, this chameleon can flick out his tongue and lap up loot. The longer you hold it, the farther the tongue goes until it reaches its limit. Licking isn't just for pesky critters, either. Try snagging hearts or crowns with your tongue.

Your tongue doesn't have to move in a straight line, so wiggle the Control Stick to nab lots of enemies.

SPIT THAT OUT!

You can snaf up baddies by pressing B and store them in your mouth until you press the B Button again. When you have a mouthful, you'll emit yellow dots that let you line up a foe as a target, and then, when you press B, you'll spit it back out again.

If you munch up many guys at once, you'll spit machine-gun style. Use the Z Button to shoot one at a time.

The tongue can tamocamers, too, to catch some tasty morsel behind you or around a tricky corner.

When enemies are swarming, try a defensive tongue move by looping it in an arc around yourself.

To aim without moving around, hold the R Button and point with your Control Stick Arm and, grr!

Spit shots can also activate parts of the puzzle, such as crowns hidden in blacks or exploding tiles.

POLE VAULT

This tongue isn't just for tasting—it's also useful as a vaulting pole! Hit Z to see your tongue extend, leaving you high in the air. For short walls, you can just lift yourself up and hit the A Button to jump off. For taller walls, however, the long vault is needed. Walk towards the wall and hold Z until you bend backward on the tongue. If you jump off at precisely the right time, you'll sail into the air!

TONGUE TWISTER

You can also attach your tongue to poles and swing across open gaps. First try grabbing a pole and holding down the B Button—you'll see how you can pull yourself towards it. If, however, you hold down the A Button as well, you won't pull your tongue back in. Instead, you can rotate yourself around, almost like winging horizontally on a tether bat. This takes some practice, but that's what the Training mode is for!

JUNGLE LAND

The first territory is the leafy place, full of spiders and steep ledges. Try to collect all the crowns from each level without losing any hearts, but watch out: some of the crowns are extra-hard. There are lots of enemies, but, luckily, there are lots of chances for extra hearts. Look carefully around each room. Use your pole-swinging skills here, and don't be frightened by spiders. Just lick those bad boys like old stamps!

RIDE THE RAILS

You'll need to ride the rickety rails to reach the king of the Jungle Land beasts. The mine cart will start rolling as soon as you jump in, but your ride will abruptly end with tragic consequences if you jump and miss the next mining cart. Leap again before you run out of track.

ROCKS FOR BRAINS

Don't take those guys for granite! These two giants will wake up when you approach. Don't be scared, avoid them, grab some spiders, and spit those rock-heads out of commission. The door will open once both giants are history.

CRACKED EGGS

An army of advancing orcs has determined to protect the four massive eggs in this chamber. Your only chance for survival is to lick up a mouthful of spiders and eat them back into the crowd. Break open the eggs and collect the four slivers in the room.

GET WET

What? You're too recently to take a dip? Try it anyway, since two crowns are hidden behind the waterfall. You won't see them, but hurt around back there. Make sure you lick the fish up first.

LEAP OF FAITH

On the first exterior screen, there is a hidden crown. Go to the edge across from the crate and look around. You should see the crown's tip twinkling, so fall on that hidden steel and rub it.

ANT LAND

FIND

CROWNS

Ant Land is no picnic. It's a complicated, military-industrial complex teeming with goose-stepping army ants. In addition to licking up insects and mowing down the marching masses, you'll need to master your pole-swinging technique to cross deep crevasses and reach the Queen Ant waiting at the end of the level. If you can't lick an advancing enemy with your tongue, try spawning a weaker foe back in their face!

DADDY LONGLEGS

The giant yellow high-steppers here can't be stopped unless you trip them. Grab on to the pole, press your A button and swing around to trip them! Next, grab an ant and shoot it at the yellow fellow. Clear them all to open the door.

CROWN JUMP

The crown is too high to swing to, but you can jump up and grab for the pole once you're in midair. Swing yourself around to land on the high platform, and reap your booty.

BOSS

ANTS ON MARCHING

The room will spin, and when it stops, ants will march across. You need to get them all to open the door, so hook out your tongue toward their line to grab 'em up.

ON THE MARCH

The ants go marching two by two, hahahumrah. More than two, and you're nowhere to find this lock a top, so grab some ants to clear a space for yourself. Walk in that space, using your sets to split more rooms at once too.

ATTACK OF THE ARMY ANTS

You can't lick them, but avoid helmeted army ants. Grab some smaller ones, and... try splitting those. They're cute, the army, now.

START

BOMB LAND

Bomb Land is a highly volatile, cast-iron fair where missiles hum past your ears, and wandering bombs tick down to oblivion. Stacks of blocks obstruct the route to the mechanized caterpillar stomping through the room at the end of the maze, so you'll need to test explosives to blast a path to the exit. But while the walls might be made of solid steel, the brittle floor breaks away with every blast. You'll need to carefully plan your path through Bomb Land or you'll end up at a dead end.

STEPPING STONES

Across the chasm is a pool of lava, swimming with bomb-guys. What to do? Grab the floating missile with your tongue, and you'll find that every bomb-guy you blow up will make a stepping stone in the lava. Clear a path to the exit, then swing across!

ROCK BLUES

Those stacks of stone are actually breakable blocks. You can blow each one up with a floating missile, and sometimes hearts are hidden in the stone for a bonus. Be careful, since you need enough blocks to jump to the exit. Also, consider using up a heart to get a crown here.

TIC-TAC-BLOW!

The floor is a game board! Lure a droid robot onto a tile, then spit a missile. Certain tiles will turn into an X or O, and others will crack. Get all tic-tac blocks to open the door.

OLYMPIC MOMENT

In this room, there's a crown hidden high above the entrance. It's even above the ceiling pipe, and only Olympic-style pole vaulting will help. Run up, dig in your pole, and go for the gold.

CANNONBALL RUN

There's a bridge to cross, but be careful, since the planks fall away after you step on them. Firing cannonballs knock planks away, too. Our advice: go for it. Run fast, grab the crown, and jump over the cannonballs.

DESERT CASTLE

FIND
24
CROWNS

A desolate citadel, the Desert Castle is slowly drowning in a vast ocean of shifting sand. Its dark halls are patrolled by hungry vultures and massive sand worms. Your pole vaulting skill is the only thing that can save you from shriveling up into a dehydrated morsel. In order to find all 24 crowns in this challenging maze, you'll need to climb your way up to the tiny platforms high above the stronghold's ramparts.

SLIP SLIDING AWAY

When you land in this quicksand flow is where you stay! That means trouble, since you can't reach the crown you just passed. Try to start the crown, then give up and start over. Then you can begin again in the sand and slide directly to the crown.

GOING UP?

You'll take a platform up a few levels, but the crown is hidden a little higher in that blue, blue sky. Wait for another moving platform to arrive and use it to float up until you see that bird. Jump on to clear your prize.

DUNE RIVER

This is another sand waterfall that will drag you to doom. To cross, lash out with your tongue and grab the posts, then swing from pole to pole like a horizontal Tarzan, avoiding the chasm. If you miss, oof! In your tongue so you'll be safe.

If you miss, oof! In your tongue so you'll be safe.

BOSS

BLADE RUNNER

You can't walk on the platforms filled with spikes, but your tongue can knock down the parietal plate. The spikes will stay down only for a short period of time, so clear your path as you walk across the platforms.

SAND TRAPS

The sand here wants to toward a hungry beast, maybe an ant-lion, maybe a toothy worm. The trick is to hop out of his trap, avoiding sand fleas. Be sure to grab the crown near the third beast's mouth.

START

KIDS' LAND

Finally, here are the kinds of enemies who are really worth munching: chocolate kids, floating cookies, angry sugar wafers and unwrapped chocolate bars. A lizard could eat himself sick in this Wilie Wonka dream land. Things are tricky here despite all the sweet-tooth fun, so you had better watch his saps jumping from one cookie to the next. There's no caramel cushion to catch you.

23
CROWNS

TONGUE LOOP

The clear barrier isn't impassable. With your tongue curved like a U, grab on to the pole that's on the same side of the barrier you're on. Swing yourself clockwise around the barrier to land on the other side.

TONGUE-TIED

There are three platforms here, one with a clear block. From an open platform, swing onto the block, which will move to another platform. Keep swinging on to the block until all platforms are done.

POGO PESTS

These pogo stick pants can't be kicked, but if you shoot them with chocolate sticks, they'll go down. To save time here, skip as a tongue-load of kids but use the Z button to spit them out one at a time, instead of mashing jumping.

START

TASTY TREASURES

Using chocolate kids for ammo, blast these angry wafers on their bull's eyes. The wafers will move back temporarily, so grab hidden treasure quick. You can also blast wafers that block your path.

COOKIE EXPRESS

When you step on a cookie platform, it will float out into the room, ending at another platform. The route is sometimes unexpected, like a floating maze, but be patient, eat cookie monsters in your way, and you will reach the exit.

GHOST CASTLE

23
CROWNS

This is the last level, and the creepiest, since you'll find yourself in the oddest haunted house of all. Here, even furniture and dishes come alive, rooms are tilted on their sides, and giant shoes walk up and down the stairs. And who decorated this place, Beetlejuice? It takes a steady hand to walk across the creaky wooden platforms here, and do learn the tricks to the more dangerous rooms.

GHOST BUSTING

It must be the maid's job off. When you walk in and grab the crowns, you'll suddenly find furniture and chins spinning around you! The only way to stop the insanity is to grab a fireball and throw it at the mirrors. Once you shut the mirrors, the spinning objects will disappear.

SPITFIRE

These urns and candelas shoot fireballs when you get close, so shoot back. Run up close, grab a fireball, then run back so they stop shooting. Jump and spit to hit these floating enemies, and be sure to clear them all.

GHOUL POOL

You need fifty crowns to enter, but inside is a giant pool hall. Shoot using your tongue, and get one hour per ball sunk, a crown for the whole rack. Be careful, though, that no balls roll over you!

YOU NEED 50 CROWNS TO OPEN THIS DOOR

CANDLERAMA

Eat up a fireball and spit it at a candle. The candle will light, and a platform will appear. Repeat using the Z Button, because the platforms will soon fade, and you need to retrieve some.

SHELF CONSCIOUS

When you enter, the library will fall on its side. Practice precision pole vaulting here: you'll need long vaults from the very edge of each shelf to get to the next, and at the other side is a high crown. Vault straight up by bending your pole back just enough then timing the release.

BEAT THE BOSSES

After you've found your way through the pitfalls of each level, you must still confront that level's Boss. No Boss is nice, and none can be hurt by tongue-grabs or spitting, but each has a weak spot that you must use to your advantage. After you've cleared all levels, you'll reach a room where you fight the Bosses again, so keep their weaknesses in mind.

ANT LAND

This nasty queen is weak only when you've tripped her. Grab the pole, swing around to trip her repeatedly, then, while she's swinging on the ground, grab an ant and shoot her. Move quickly—she doesn't stay down for long, and she comes up swinging.

JUNGLE LAND

This fellow throws boulders, so beware, but he is weak when he doesn't have a boulder in his hand. You need to slurp up some buttermilk then use machine gun thorn at the apex, angling to push him off the edge. Repeat until he takes a dive.

DESERT CASTLE

When this unworldly bouncer, he shakes up sand here, but he stops on a fourth bounce. That's when you can hit him with a Ness. Act fast because he won't linger. Also, he will reappear in the sand beneath you, so run after you've hit him.

BOMB LAND

Here, a mechanical caterpillar lays bombs as eggs. The bombs will reappear if you keep only two, so grab a bomb and shoot the top from the side, knocking out a segment. Be careful when he coils these sandwiches himself at you—anticipate and run quickly.

GHOST CASTLE

This looks like nothing but a pile of books with swinging arms, but we told you! Avoid the arms when they swing and poke out the segments with your tongue. Then, when the book-body spins and launches a stream of a sals, grab some red machine-gun thorn bars.

KIDS' LAND

This giant cake launches strawberries—and you can't lick it's frosting! You can avoid the berries by watching their shadows, and when the cake's layers open up, jump and grab a chocolate moon as it slides. Repeat until it gets its past desserts.

BATTLE MODE

STAGE SELECT

SURVIVAL MATCH

As with most games these days, Chameleon Twist gives you the option of multiplayer tongue-busting in the Battle Mode. It's a twist from the main mode, and it gives the game long-lasting appeal. And, of course, it gives you a chance to take on unsuspecting friends. From two to four can play, with different characters, in either of the two Battle Modes.

SURVIVAL MATCH

Here the point is just to last the longest while trying to push opponents off the edge. You can use the various skulls, keds and fireballs to spit the other lizards into the void or into an enemy, or simply poke at them with your trusty tongue. At first it will be fun to go all-out against your friends, attacking with every tongue trick you've mastered, but with a few players it can be over soon unless you play defensively. Protect yourself by looping your tongue around your body, catching thrown objects, staying clear of enemies, and watching your repole feet. You will survive!

Each of the four matches is different, but it's easy to fall off! The two square screens are stable but competitively tricky with many elements, and the donuts and floating weirs make watching your step crucial.

TIME TRIAL

In these matches, you'll have a clock ticking next to your name. You'll still try to stay on the platform and knock your opponents off, but even if you do fall off, you won't be done for. Instead, you get docked seconds until you climb back into the ring, and sometimes you will need to pole vault up to do it. Because some of the surfaces are so slippery, they're tough to stay on even without an opponent knocking away at you with skulls or fireballs, but try to remain King of the Hill by grabbing at poles. After the time runs out, the player with the least time spent off the platform wins.

The octagonal screens are slippery with ice and sand, so keep pulling yourself up with the poles. The other levels have either tricky holes or falling skulls that can knock you right off! If you fall, get back up quick!

MORTAL KOMBAT MYTHOLOGIES

SUB-ZERO

Long before entering the Mortal Kombat tournaments, Sub-Zero had proven himself to be a warrior capable of feats that were worthy of the greatest myths. Midway unfolds the earliest chapter of the Mortal Kombat's adventures as a young Lin Kuei assassin in MK Mythologies. This time around, fighting alone won't make Sub-Zero the hero. Magic items, experience points and hidden keys will ignite the MK action and myth. Submerge yourself in our Sub-Zero strategies and perhaps you too will become a legend.

Sub-Zero is the first of the Mortal Kombat fighters to venture out of the arena and into his own adventure. In Mortal Kombat Mythologies: Sub-Zero, the master of cold introduces MK's Outworld-renown brand of brutal fighting to the worlds of side-scrolling action and epic adventure. What results is a unique blend of action that sweep kicks across three game genres guaranteed to bruise the egos of fighting pros who think they've mastered all MK has to offer.

A SIDE-SCROLLER...

Above all, MKM is a side-scroller. Spanning eight areas, Sub-Zero's mission may progress through sideways mazes, but expect 3-D elements as well, such as platforms that swing to and from the foreground.

...MEETS A TOURNEY FIGHTER...

Of course, if it bears the Mortal Kombat name, then it has to have fighting. Mythologies pulls no punches when it comes to providing hand-to-hand combat. Lurking at the edge of almost every screen are combo masters, including MK regular Scorpion along with new brawlers, bruisers and a few barrelsful of monks.

...MEETS ADVENTURE

Fighting through the side-scroller will have an added twist of adventuring, too. By winning fights, Sub-Zero will accumulate experience points that will earn him new powers. On his adventure menu, Sub-Zero can concoct potions, use magical items or study clues and special moves.

CONTROLS AND COMBAT

No longer confined to an arena, Sub-Zero will be able to walk, run, jump, climb, slide, and somersault his way through his mission. Pathways will branch left, right, up and down, and Sub-Zero will have to climb ropes, dodge booby traps, and leap pits and crevasses in order to turn his mythological lore into a reality.

KONTROLS

Players can use the Control Pad or Stick to move Sub-Zero. When fighting, use the Control Pad, since special moves are almost impossible to execute with the Control Stick. When navigating around obstacles, stick with the Control Stick. Moving diagonally and regulating Sub-Zero's speed is tougher with the Control Pad, so the quicker way to go is with the Control Stick. Sometimes, however, a gentle tap on the Control Pad may help Sub-Zero inch over to where he needs to be.

KOMBAT

Since MKM is set years before Sub-Zero enters the MK tournaments, ol' Mr. Snow Miser hasn't yet learned how to tap into his powers. During his mission, Sub-Zero will eventually be able to use some special attacks from the MK trilogy (the same button sequences will activate the moves). As Sub-Zero racks up experience points, he'll move up to nine special attacks, beginning with the Ice Blast, Slide, Directional Ice Blast, Air Ice, Ice Clone, Ice Shatter, Super Slide, Freeze on Contact, and finally ending with the Polar Blast.

SHAO LIN TEMPLE

Commissioned by sorcerer Quan Chi, Sub-Zero journeys into China's Shaolin Temples to retrieve the Map of the Elements which reveals the whereabouts of an amulet. Unbeknownst to Sub-Zero, the amulet acts as a link between earth and the Netherrealm, where the banished god, Shinnok, was imprisoned by Rayden. Unwillingly, Sub-Zero will risk his life dodging booby traps and battling sword-wielding Shaolin monks to unleash Shinnok and his wrath on earth.

1 PILLARS

After exiting the third room (where you see a rope hanging), walk with caution. The monks have booby-trapped the fourth room by rigging giant pillars to drop from the ceiling, squishing anyone who walks beneath them. The Tablet of Truth advises that you use a sweep kick in front of the pillar to activate the trap, but a punch will be much safer.

2 STAGE DIVE

At the balcony, walk to the edge. A map is in the temple's lower level, but rather than using the Control Stick to get there, use the Control Pad. Tap up, then tap right, while in midair to hop onto the ceiling. Once you're perched on top of it, tap right again and you'll leap to the awning below.

3 HERBAL HEALER

Your acrobatic leap from the balcony will land you at a checkpoint. You'll also land near a revitalizing Herbal Healer. Walk right to take a dose of medicine, then head left to take on more monks.

4 SCORPION

Quan Chi figured he'd have a better chance of getting the map if he put two men on the job. Unfortunately for Sub-Zero, the other man is his arch rival, Scorpion. Beat the ninja to the punch by following your Ice Blast with a 6-hit combo: two high punches + low punch + low kick + high kick + roundhouse kick (high kick + back). (If you've earned the Slide, use it before the Ice Blast.) Before he retaliates, jump back, then repeat the process. When you knock Scorpion to his knees, you'll be able to finish him with a head-popping fatality.

5 MAP OF THE ELEMENTS

Once Scorpion has felt the sting of defeat, hop onto the pedestal at the left end of the room. The Map of the Elements floats above it, so hit the A Button to grab it. When you've claimed your prize, the roof of the temple will open up. Journey back to the right until you reach the room with the rope hanging in it. Climb the rope through the roof until you reach the top, then leap to the right to return to your clan.

With the map in hand, Quan Chi once again retains Sub-Zero's services. The Temple of the Elements houses the amulet that Quan Chi desires, and only Sub-Zero, with his chilling prowess, will be able to infiltrate the stronghold. But before Sub-Zero can seize the amulet, he must first defeat the four elemental gods who guard it. To confront the first god, the God of Wind, he will have to scale the heights of the Himalayas to clash in the clouds.

2 UNSTABLE GROUND

When you land on the mesa after leaping from the first bridge, your weight will cause the platform to shake. You'll only have a second before the platform topples over, so leap to the next platform without fighting the monk. The next platform will also fall away, but you'll have time to collect its Herbal Heater first.

1 RISING WIND

To hop to faraway platforms, Sub-Zero can get a lift from the wind. When you see an updraft blowing leaves and branches to the sky, hop inside to go airborne.

3 ARE YOU EXPERIENCED?

An amateurish Sub-Zero will botch the mission, so fight all enemies in order to amass experience points. By throwing monks off platforms, you'll begin away your chances of earning experience; instead fight them for all they're worth.

4 WINDMILLS OF THE GODS

Sub-Zero will find that windmills pose a giant threat. Each windmill's gears rotate a horizontal arm that Sub-Zero must hop on to reach the other side. Getting past the windmills will only be possible if your timing is precise. If the six o'clock position is when the arm is pointing directly at the screen, use the Control Stick to hop onto the arm when it's pointed at eight o'clock. While airborne, tap the stick to the left and you'll land square on the arm.

5 TIGHTROPE

When you reach the bridge that has four ropes hanging from it, climb down the first rope, then leap to the wooden deck beneath the platform to collect a 1-up.

6 RIDE THE WIND TO THE

When you've leapt to the fourth rope, wait for the updraft. When it starts blowing, jump into it, let it carry you up, then hop onto the left platform.

7 FIRST ICON OF THE WIND

Before you can exchange blows with the God of Wind, you must first collect the three Wind Icons. Work your way to the left after hopping out of the updraft. Above the leftmost platform you'll find the first icon. By snatching it up, you'll be able to reach new heights with its magical properties, and you'll register at the area's first checkpoint.

8 WIND BRIDGE

After you have the first icon, reverse direction and head right. When you reach the platform with the yellow circle painted on it, access your adventure menu to activate the icon.

10 THIRD ICON

Return to the wind bridge and float up. Jump to the right ledge, then use the second icon to enter the room. Inside, freeze a monk, then push him on top of the floor switch to keep the right door open. Snag the third icon in the next room, then quickly slide left before the fan you've just activated sucks you into its blades.

9 SECOND ICON

Jump into the wind bridge to reach the second icon of the Wind, push down on the Control Stick to keep your altitude low, then exit to the platform that's directly across from the platform with the yellow circle. Head right, then hop up immediately after stepping onto the bridge. It will quickly collapse, and if you're standing on it, you'll get hit by a plank. When you land, head left to claim the second icon.

11 THE SWING-OF THINGS

Hanging platforms rock back and forth, and the Control Stick will help you command the situation. When the platform swings close to the screen, push the Control Stick up diagonally to somersault. The platform will swing right under you and catch you as you land.

UNSTABLE SEVEN

After swing-hopping, you'll reach a door that you can unlock with the third Wind Icon. On the other side, be light on your toes and ready to quickly somersault from platform to platform, because the first seven towering columns will rumble out from under you.

MK MYTHOLOGIES

13 WIND GOD

Rayden appointed four gods to watch over the amulet. Sub-Zero's first brush with divinity is against the God of Wind, a blowhard whose main tactic is to float above you and out of your attack range. The Wind God's main offenses are spinning into a twister, summoning the winds to blow you upward, and snatching you up then dropping you from the sky. The Wind God has the advantage when he's in the sky, so keep him grounded and at bay by always being a step away from him. If he tries to take to the sky, jump over him, then attack. When he twists into a tornado, you won't be able to attack him, so wait until you hear him stop spinning, then attack him with a jump kick. When you've knocked all the wind out of the god, he'll try to take you down with him by spinning into one final thunderous tornado. His rage can suck you off the edge of the platform, so as soon as you've drained him of his energy, run to the left or right end of the area and grab onto the blocks before his vacuum can suck you away.

Like a child, the Wind God doesn't like to fight fair, but El Nino he's not. The Wind God's favorite attack is to twist into a tornado. Listen carefully as he spins. As soon as you hear the wind stop whirling, the god will vulnerably come to rest, so quickly jump up and kick him back to earth. To set up this easy attack, provoke him into spinning by attacking with your Ice Blast.

EARTH HERSAKUL

After his walk in the clouds, Sub-Zero will plunge into the bowels of a cavernous underworld where the Earth God dwells. Three icons will gain Sub-Zero entry to the god's lair, but the Lin Kuei assassin will have to navigate the winding network of tunnels without getting buried by the landslide of obstacles that include spring-action crushers, pits and bladed pendulums.

2 A HOLE LOT OF HEALING

Not all pits are traps. Take the plunge into the second hole that opens up in the ground. At the bottom, you'll find a 1-up, Herbal Healer and a potent bottle of Dee Dow Formula. Hop on the spring platform to

1 PITFALLS

When the ground starts to quake, proceed with caution. The shaking earth indicates the ground is about to open up. If it swallows you, you'll fall into a hole and, most likely, land on the giant spike on the pit's floor.

3 PENDULUMS

Throughout the caves, pendulums outfitted with blades swing to and fro. The slightest misstep can be costly, so, as soon as the pendulum passes in front of you, use the Control Pad to head right.

4 5 THE PIT AND THE PENDULUM

If you climb too far down the rope, the ceiling will lower and it will crush you into the ground. Instead, jump off the rope to the ledge, then hop over the pendulum. At point 5 on the map, leap over the crusher. Avoid jumping too far, however, because a pit will open up near your landing site.

6 FIRST ICON

The first icon floats above a pit flanked by two pendulums. When the pit closes, use the Control Pad to walk to the icon. Grab the key, then jump back to the left. Only the pendulum's blade can slash you, so you'll be able to leap through the handle unscathed. When you escape, climb down the pit at point 4.

7 CRUSHER

Launch from the spring at the hall's end, then grab onto the left ledge. Hop to the edge of the ledge, then, when the crusher is closed, use the Control Pad to jump into its rim. When the crusher opens, walk across it to collect the 1-up, then hop out.

8 ON EDGE

When you drop into the pit, move to the left or right as you fall so that you'll land on the surrounding ledge at the middle of the hole. On either ledge, you'll find an Herbal Healer. Collect both items, dive down the pit, then trek right.

9 BAD KARMA

As the levitating monks whirl about, they'll generate a force field around themselves that will blast you with lightning. When the monks are set to disappear, their spinning will slow down and their shields will dissolve. Fire your Ice Blast at one of them when he's about to vanish and you'll shatter him and his inner peace into a million pieces.

10 EARTH GOD

When you've defeated the two meditating monks, the Earth God's lair will open. Inside the arena, the rock-solid deity willlobber you with punches, kicks and falling ceiling rocks that he shakes loose with his seismic stomps. The only way to pulverize him into rubble is by toppling the platform that's suspended in the room's center so that it drops on the god's head. The skull switch by the right wall will cause the heavy weight to drop from the ceiling. However, when you're near the switch, you won't be able to see whether or not the god is standing beneath the platform.

The lighted area in the middle of the floor is the spot where the hanging weight will drop. After the Earth God walks leftward over the spot, count the number of steps he takes. When he's about to attack you, slide to skate between his legs and reach the switch. The ground will quake whenever he takes a step toward you, so count the tremors before throwing the switch. When the number of quakes from his return trip matches the number of steps you counted, the god will be beneath the weight.

SHIELD 14

END

11 ROPE'S END

To climb the rope to point 11, snag the icon in area 10. Once you've smashed the mountainous god into a molehill, hit the switch, then quickly board the platform to ride up to the key. Access area 11 with the key, climb the rope, then leap to the ledge's edge to avoid the crusher.

12 MONK OF DOOM

Center yourself on the springed platforms below area 12. When it boosts you up, collect the Herbs on the ledge, then jump to the right chill. Somersault over the monk, then Ice Blast him from the right wall. When you've zapped the monk to another plane of existence, jump into the pit that will open at your feet.

13 POE PARADISE

Pits and pendulums fill the unwitting halls of area 13. It's not necessary to venture down the passage, but there is a light at the end of the tunnel—three Herbs and a 1-up. Prancing past the pendulums without falling into the pits will be a close shave, but remember that you can leap over both pits and pendulums.

14 MONK PUNKS

In the final stretch, you'll have one final chance to rack up experience points. Five monks armed with staffs will reluctantly attempt to beat the chakra out of you, but your jump kick will teach them a lesson. Once you've sunk the monks, use the third icon to lower the blockade at the end of the hall, then journey to the right to reach the maze's end.

WATER GOD

From dry land, Sub-Zero will immerse himself in the depths of the Water God's temple. To reach him, Sub-Zero will have to collect the three Water Icons by wading through the confusing labyrinth of sewer pipes and dodging the attacks of menacing monks and electric eels. And while Lin Kuei's finest is regarded as the master of frozen water, he's no master of lukewarm liquids. Sub-Zero is a sub-par swimmer, so avoid diving into any deep water.

3 OPEN THE FLOODGATES

As soon as you use the second icon to open the door, the exit will quickly shut as the floodgate on your right opens to release a tidal wave of water into the room. You'll have little time to reach the exit before you're sealed in a watery grave, so face the exit to the left when you use the icon. Immediately run to the left doorway, slide through before it shuts, then swiftly grab onto the rope.

4 THIRD ICON

By opening the floodgate, the room leading to area 4 will fill with water so you can sail across it. Enter the newly flooded area via the horizontal passage, then voyage right for the icon.

6 WATER GOD

The third icon will unlock the door to the God of Water, whose unfathomable powers will likely wash up any combatant. The god sprays out projectiles and summons up geysers to toss you in the air like a canoe on the rapids. The god also has the ability to flush himself into a mobile puddle that he'll then reshape into his human form when he's behind you. If you freeze the god as he's transforming, you'll be able to catch him off guard. When you've chilled the drink, close in with a quick combo, then retreat.

The Water God's favorite moves are electric projectiles and geyser assaults. Your Ice Blast, however, will steady the tide. Whenever you knock the god down, he'll escape. As the big drip is morphing to ice in puddle form, freeze him. The basic tactics used to defeat Scorpion also apply to the Water God: follow your Ice Blast with a combo in the way, then retreat the procedure.

1ST ICON

irregularly arranged stones. In addition to the Water God's lock, they will have to go back and forth between the sewers. At area 1, find the first icon.

2 SECOND ICON

Unlock the door with the first icon, then board the wooden platform inside. As the water level in the room begins to rise, stay afloat on the platform. When you've sailed to the left side of the room, enter the tunnel for the second icon.

3 ELECTRIC EEL

The sewer's electric eel patrols the shallow waters with a high voltage charge that will sap a shockingly large amount of energy out of you. Leap aboard the floating platform to cross the sewer without getting your feet wet (or fried)—and use the Control Pad to jump over any obstacles that gets in your way.

Use your powerful move, grab an ice cube, and leap to the top of the wall to see what you can do. Water is not out of the way.

4 INTO THE FIRE

And then there was one. Three gods have fallen, and only the God of Fire remains to protect the amulet. However, Sub-Zero's mission doesn't end with the Fire God's defeat. Three more missions follow the Temple of Fire: escaping the Prison of Souls, crossing the Bridge of Immortality, and searching for Quan Chi's sanctuary. Are you worthy of fulfilling the myth?

DIG HEADS OR THY PLAYERS, HP VOLUME 95 HAS GRETZKY '98 CODES

Don't waste your time searching for new codes or hidden features in Gretzky '98—the codes for the original Wayne Gretzky's 3D Hockey on the back of the poster in Volume 95 will get the job done. Look for more details in next issue's Classified Information.

SAME GAME, NEW YEAR?

If you're shopping for your first N64 hockey game, Gretzky '98 is one of the best titles to ever hit store shelves. This fantastic sequel features all the options in last year's title, plus updated and enlarged NHL rosters with NHLPA players and new record keeping menus. But if you're not the world's biggest hockey fan and you've already scribbled and saved to buy the first Wayne Gretzky's 3D Hockey, you might conclude that the minor differences between the two versions can't justify the cost of buying a whole new game. It's tough to blame the folks at Midway for not making more changes, or even altering the numerous codes, easy-to-master moves or realistic animations in Gretzky '98—everything about the game is cooler than ice shavings. Read up on the facts and features in this review and make your own call.

ARCADE MODE'S COOLEST MOVES

POWER SHOTS

The bolstered defense is tough in Gretzky '98, but you can vent your frustration with Arcade mode's Power shots. Ice the goalie with these cool moves:

BURN THE NET

Get the puck on fire by pressing the A Button and the Bottom C Button at the same time. If you shoot past the posts, you'll set the net on fire.

BLAST THE GOALIE

You don't have to worry about the goalie if you shoot between the face off circles and press the A Button and Bottom C Button at the same time.

NEW MENUS AND OPTIONS

LEAGUE LEADERS

Want to know who's leading the league in goals or assists during the season? Check the stats on the new League Leaders menu. The game tracks the top 20 NHL leaders in Goals, Assists, Points and Plus/Minus categories as you complete an 82-game season.

TRADE PLAYERS

Whether you want to tweak your roster to reflect real NHL trades or dominate your division with your fantasy league team, Gretzky '98's trading options gives you complete control. Every trade is worry-free because the game doesn't have a salary cap.

ROSTERS AND RECORDS

TEAM ROSTERS

There are seventeen players on each of the 26 teams in Gretzky '98. This is an increase from the eleven players you could select in the original game. Customize the lines on your roster and enhance your scoring chances against other teams in the league.

PLAYER CARDS

PLAYER CARDS

The new Player Cards track each player's personal records for goals, assists and hat tricks throughout the season. Save the statistics on your N64 Controller Memory Pak, so you can compare records with your friends.

ONE-TIMERS

PASS AND SHOOT

A One-Timer is a quick pass to a teammate followed immediately with a shot at the net. This lightning-quick play will often catch a goalie off guard, increasing your scoring chances. To execute a One-Timer, simultaneously press the A and B Buttons.

TURBO POWER

SUPER FAST SHOTS

Even when you're playing in Simulation mode, you can still use Power Shots to slip the puck past the goalie's pads. Power Shots tend to work better at close range, so skate close to the net and press the A and Bottom C buttons at the same time.

BRICK WALL DEFENSE

HEAVY TRAFFIC IN FRONT OF THE NET

Your team's defensemen will automatically fall back in front of your goalie any time the opposing team slides the puck across your side of the blue line, but you can help out by adding your winger or center to the crowd protecting your net.

BREAK UP THE PLAY

If you feel comfortable leaving your goalie to fend for himself, you can move your defensemen out into a man-to-man confrontation with the opposing team and try to steal the puck whenever it's passed between the other team's advancing players.

TEMPERS FLARE ON THE ICE

SETTLE THE SCORE

Every player has an Anger Meter that shows their ability to endure checks and trips. The gloves come off when a player's meter hits its limit.

HASTY POWER CHECKS

Send your opponent flying by simultaneously pressing the Bottom C Button and the Left C Button. Power Checks will increase your victim's Anger Meter.

REPERCUSSIONS AND FANS

Players can inflict the worst damage in a fight. Press the A and Bottom C Buttons to launch an opponent, then press the B Button to add a quick jab.

POWER'S TOP PICKS

Who's the best player on the ice? While every hockey fan has his or her opinion and personal favorite, we put together a list of the most talented players ranked strictly by statistics used in the game.

Don't get too bent out of shape if you don't see your favorite player listed here. After all, the best players in Gretzky '98 are only as good as the gamer behind the controller.

REASON

Scored 25 goals in his rookie year. Watch him double it this season.

Lead rookies in league with most points (50). Will pass Fleury in goals this year.

1st overall draft pick. Thornton possesses tremendous speed and good hockey sense.

Can't miss the net when he skates with Harry York and Jon Murphy.

Ranked 10th in Top NHL Defencemen in his rookie year.

PICK YOUR TEAM

If you're trying to pick a winning team, check out the league statistics for the 1996-97 season. The best winning percentage won't guarantee a team the best shot at the championship—the proof is in the statistics of last year's Stanley Cup champion, the Detroit Redwings.

The Dark Age

Codes From the Dark Ages

December is shaping up to be tourney fighting month here at Classified Info, so let's just wade in with some sharp and scary ones for Mace: The Dark Age. Just so you know, the Pojo and Color codes can be used in one- and two-player matches, but the Stage Select, Small Fighters and Big Head codes are available in two-player matches only. The Grendal code is entered in the two-player mode, but once it's activated, you can choose Grendal in any mode.

Play As Pojo, Pt. 1

Select Toria as your character and win your match. Be sure to win her Execution, which will turn your opponent into a chicken. When you return to the Character Select screen, press and hold Start.

Play As Pojo, Pt. 2

Toria will change into Pojo the Chicken. Highlight Pojo and press A. Continue to hold Start until the match begins, or Pojo will revert to Toria. If you exit your game at any time, you will have to reenter this code.

Play As Grendal

Let one character win three matches in a row. Go back to the Character Select screen, highlight Executioner and press and hold Start. Executioner will become Grendal. Press A to select him.

Change Color

To change the color of your character's clothing, highlight the character you wish to be and press the L Button or any of the C Buttons. When you find a color scheme you like, hold that button and press A.

Stage Select

On the Character Select screen, highlight the character whose stage you'd like to fight in and press Start four times. Now choose your character as normal.

Small Fighters

To create pint-sized warriors, highlight Takenki and press Start. Now highlight Al-Rasad and press Start. Repeat this pattern with Ragax and Xiao Long. Now select your character as normal.

Big Head

You know it had to be in here somewhere! Highlight Ragax and press Start. Highlight Al-Rasad and press Start. Highlight Takenki and press Start. Now choose your character as normal.

Rattling the Cages

The Mace development team gave us just one more code, which we'll reveal next month. In the meantime, we'll wonder in print if there are any more codes squirreled away in there. What do you think?

EXTREME-G

More Trick Names

As we played through this screamer, we came across more trick names like the one we told you about last month. You can change your player name to "Fisheye" (warped game view), "Magnify" (magnified game view) or "Ughmode" (graphics became blocky). To change your name, go to the Controller Configuration screen and select the "Name" option. Enter your new name and press Start.

These names work in the Extreme Contest, Single Player and Multiplayer modes.

Toto, I don't think we're in Kansas anymore!

SECRET OF EVERMORE

Unlimited Run

We don't know if there's been a run on bargain bin copies of this fine game in our recent mall. In response, here's a handy trick for dodging mutants and monsters. Equip any weapon that can be charged to Level 3 or higher. Charge it to full capacity. Continue to hold the charge button and then press and hold the run button. You can now run indefinitely!

As you run, you'll see your weapon gauge begin to recharge.

The effect lasts as long as you hold the buttons. Release them to launch an attack.

DARK RIFT

Sonork and Demitron

Back in Volume 99, we printed a code that will allow you to play as Sonork, one of the boss characters of Dark Rift. Now we have a code that will give you access to both Sonork and Demitron. On the title screen, press A, B, R Button, L Button, bottom C and top C. If you enter the code correctly, you'll hear a laugh, and Sonork and Demitron will appear on the Character Select screen. Even though these two are horrendously powerful, we thought we'd improve some of their combos below. Go to town!

Sonork Combo 1

To see one of Sonork's basic combos in action, press top C, tap C, Down + bottom C. Dech! That's gotta hurt!

Demitron Combo 1

Since you've probably already discovered Demitron's simplest combo (press bottom C twice) on your own, we'll use it in a second combo for free: press top C, top C and Down + top C.

If that last combo didn't get your blood (or rather, your opponent's blood) flowing, then press left C, left C and Down + left C. That should do the trick!

PlayFighter

GOLDENEYE 007

BT Codes and Clay

The most hilarious fighting game to come down the pike in a while deserves some equally entertaining codes. We hope these fit the bill!

Random Select

Can't decide which Clayfighter to see? Press the L and R Buttons simultaneously as the Character Select screen to let the computer choose for you.

Stage Select

This code works in a two-player match only. On the Vs. screen, have one player press any of the C Buttons. When you find the stage you want, press B.

Secret Options

Dr. Kilo

Double and Triple Trouble

This is a variation of the cloning trick we printed last month. Start a Multiplayer game and set the number of players to four. Select your characters. Player Four should choose the character you want to clone. Return to the Options screen and set the number of players to three. Now have Player Three select the same character as Player Four. Go back and set the number of players to two. Now Player Two should select the same character as Players Three and Four. Set the number of players back to four and press Start.

You can use this trick with three or four players.

You can have up to three of the same character. Which one is the real 007?

Mix and Metch Weapons

We received several variations of this trick, but this is what it boils down to: you can fool the game into letting you carry one gun in one hand and a different gun in the other! You must first get two copies of two guns. These guns must be next to each other on your weapon list. On the play screen, set your weapons to the second pair of guns. Now cycle backwards through your weapons twice and forward once. As the guns are switching, press Z repeatedly. If a gun fires before the last switch is made, the switching process will stop, and you'll be holding a mixed pair of guns.

This trick can be very difficult to execute and may take numerous tries.

Now you can complete your mission in style. You'll look not-really!

War Gods

Combo Divine

You say you'd like a few War Gods combos? Well, we're happy to oblige! Here are a few longer combos for four of your favorite deities.

Rnubis

Press Back, Forward, HP, HK, HP, LP, Back, Forward + LP, Back + HP, Forward + LP and Forward + HP + LP to awaken this Egyptian god's awesome power.

Pagan

Pagan shows that she can hold her own against any rogue god with this devastating combo. Press Back, Forward, HP, HK, Down + HP, HK, HK, HK, LK, LK, Forward, Down, Back and HP.

Habuki Jo

What's with the looks, Joek? To give your opponents a bad hair day, press Back, Forward, HP, HP, HK, LP, LP, HK + LK, Back, Down, Forward and HK.

Ualish

For a combo of epic proportions, press Back, Forward, HP, LK, LK, HP, LP, LP, HP, Back, Down, Forward and HP.

Mr. Do!

Extra Lives and More

This classic game was an arcade mainstay for a lot of years, and now it's a part of the Super NES library. We could not let this one slip by without mentioning the codes we found for it. To start the game with 99 lives, press Left nine times on the Universal screen. To activate the stage select function, press Down nine times on the Universal screen. Press Left or Right to choose a specific stage and then press Start to begin your game. To change the name of the game to "Mr. Du!", press Up nine times on the Universal screen.

If you enter the codes correctly, you'll hear a tone.

They just don't make them like they used to!

STAR WARS SHADOWS OF THE EMPIRE

Code Hunter Correction: Jabba Jive

Okay, we admit it. We goofed! We don't know if all the hours spent playing the Live and Let Die mode in Goldeneye has scrambled our brains, but we made a big mistake in Volume 99. The supposed "Jabba" cheat for Shadows of the Empire does not, in fact, exist! All weapons are supercharged on the Jedi difficulty level, no matter what you do. A big tip of the lightsaber to our sources at LucasArts for pointing that out to us.

BOMBERMAN 64

Looking for a game that delivers a dynamite one-player adventure? And how about a game that brings you explosive multiplayer battles? If a double combo appeals to you, Bomberman 64, created by Hudson and published by Nintendo, is going to give you the best of both worlds!

Bomberman 64 TM & © 1997 Hudson Soft. Licensed to Nintendo.

BOMBERMAN 64 BLASTS OFF!

Fans of earlier Bomberman games already know that their multiplayer modes provide endless hours of bomb-throwing fun. And now that Bomberman's been given the Nintendo 64 treatment, the multiplayer battles are better than ever, and the one-player adventure, which featured simple graphics in earlier versions, has become a more complex journey through three-dimensional worlds. Thanks to artist Satoshi Koishi, Nintendo Power has exclusive maps of the mazes straight from the master.

Dimensional N64 graphics like these bring a completely new level of depth to a once fun, but rather flat, one-player game.

Bomberman's enormous enemies don't only look fantastic, they also provide our little bomb-throwing friend with lots of pulse-pounding challenge!

BOMBS & BONUSES

Most of the items shown below can be found in abundance in both the Adventure and Battle modes, but some items like the Gold Cards and Custom Parts can be employed or used only in specific areas of the game. Check the maps on the following pages for some of the items' locations in each level.

PUMPED BOMB

To pump up bombs, just pick them up and rapidly tap the A Button. This will double the bombs' destructive power.

REMOTE BOMBS

If you can locate Remote Bomb icons, you'll be able to detonate your bombs from a safe distance.

POWER BOMBS

The Power bonus boosts your bombs' ability to blast through some previously indestructible objects, like big walls and stone pillars.

GOLD CARDS

There are five special Gold Cards hidden within every single stage of the Adventure mode. If you collect a Bomberman, collect them all, a sixth world of wonders will be revealed.

EXTRA BOMBS

These blue-and-gold Bonus items let you set one extra bomb each. If you collect a bunch, you can set up to eight bombs at a time.

FIRE POWER-UPS

These Items increase your bombs' power. By one Pumped bomb can be raised six notches, regular bombs can be raised three.

HEARTS

Each Heart allows you to absorb one hit, and then it wears out. You can't stockpile Hearts to defend against multiple hits.

BOMBERMAN IN BATTLE

When up to four bombers (or Bomber-women, end up in the same room, things turn explosive. In six battle arenas, you must drop, kick, or throw bombs while staying out of trouble yourself. It's frantic, but fun and the last bomber standing wins. The first bomberman to win three rounds takes the crown.

• ROCK GARDEN •

The rows of grass and pillars will appeal to bombers who like their game play as fast and furious as possible.

• UP AND DOWN •

This multilevel rig offers bombers lots of power-up bonuses, and platforms where bombs can be tossed down from above.

• PYRAMID •

The top of the pyramid is a great place to pelt other players with bombs, but go to its base to get the bonuses.

• GREEDY TRAP •

In this arena, those who are greedy for bonuses can quickly become sitting ducks if they aren't extremely careful.

• TOP RULES •

While keeping your footing is easier if you stay on the floor, the catwalks allow you to attack bombers down below.

• FIELD OF GRASS •

By placing your bombs in the long deep grass of the battlefield so that they become well camouflaged, booby traps.

BUILD A BOMBER

You can find custom parts hidden in the Adventure mode to spruce up your Bomberman's head, legs, arms, and body in the Battle mode.

SIX WORLDS TO EXPLORE

You can start your adventure in any one of four wondrous worlds, each containing four stages. Once you've successfully bombed your way through these first four, a special fifth world can be explored. But even after it's completed, the game is still far from finished! One last world awaits those with all the Gold Cards!

GREEN GARDEN

Since we're giving you the scoop on only three of the worlds, we'll start with the Green Garden because it's the easiest of the bunch. Stages 1 and 3 have simple goals, so they're good places to master the controls, and the enemies in Stages 2 and 4 are easier to defeat than the one's you'll face in later levels.

STAGE 1 TARGET: 00012000

If you complete a stage within or before its Target, you'll earn a Gold Card.

1 SOCCER BOMB

To access the switch in the cage, look for an opening in the bottom of one of the cage's walls. Now lock a couple of bombs through the slot to destroy the columns holding up the top of the cage.

BOMB, BOP, TOSS

You can get a handy outfit for free by bopping his head with a bomb. When in the field, always keep your bombs up and toss them into the abyss.

Remember that Bomberman can throw bombs in three different directions.

You must be careful to avoid a little guy even from within the safety of your Alpha.

STAGE 1 GOAL

2 3 SEEK SWITCHES

As long as you keep an eye out for enemies and take a thorough tour around the stage, locating the second, third, and fourth switches should be a cinch.

WARP WORRIES?

You can reach this warp by making a run out of pumped Remote Bombs. If you've stacked them well, you should be able to bounce up to the warp.

In this warp area, you need to bomb four seemingly unreachable columns. But by throwing pumped Remote Bombs onto closer pillars, you can bounce bombs to their bases.

STAGE 1 START

Why do you need to use the warps? Well, besides leading you to Gold Cards, warp areas are fantastic places to find Custom Parts and Bells, which will help you gain Continues.

STAGE 2 SIRIUS

When you begin your battle with Sirius, stand still and kick a couple of bombs his way. Next, dash around the arena and keep kicking bombs until this foe's defeated.

Try tossing a pumped bomb at Sirius for a double face of damage.

1 LAUNCH A LIFT

To get a lift to the diamond's second landing spot, kick a bomb into the slot shown to the left and then quickly pour up the stairs and stand on the square that's positioned just above the bomb.

2 WARP IN THE WALL

The warp that leads to the goal area is well hidden behind a wall—you'll need to use a Pumped Bomb to blast your way in. Once you're in area B, use bombs and blocks to get to the top of the tower.

STAGE 4

DRACO

TARGET: 00020000

To clip this dragon's wings, Bomberman would be wise to pump up some Remote Bombs while avoiding Draco's fangs and fiery breath. Just be sure to wait until Draco flies in close before you lob your bomb.

STAGE 3 START

Start pumping your bomb when Draco is leaving his distance. You may need to dodge a few of the dragon's attacks until the time is right to strike.

Draco will fly in close and wrch his back for a big attack. Bomb him when he starts to swoop down.

BLUE RESORT

Are you ready to help Bomberman find his way around the Blue Resort? You'd better be, because there are lots of cannons and dangerous critters to bomb, and loads of Gold Cards to uncover. But besides having a blast, your main goal is to crisscross the island's bridges and boulevards in search of the switches that control the canals. If you can dry out these waterways and locate the finish lines, you might just get the chance to go fishing!

STAGE 1 TARGET: 00013000

1 BOMB BRIDGES!

Since Bomberman can't swim, the only way to cross the town's canals is to use the drawbridges. Try setting Pumped Bombs at the bridge's hinges to throw them into the down position.

2 SINK OR SWITCH

While carefully avoiding cannons, make your way to this switch, which walls off the canal's water supply. Once the dam is raised, you can safely walk in the canal without getting wet.

3 CLOSE CANAL

While lighting off numerous baby foes, travel down the canal until you come to a second switch. Pressing it will close off another canal, which in turn reveals a building that was previously underwater.

4 HIGH AND DRY

You'll find the final switch on the second floor of the building that was recently submerged. Look for Sens along the way—he has some special info to share.

MAP LEGEND

STAGE 2 ARTEMIS

TARGET: 00020000

To counter Artemis' strategy, try kicking bombs his way while you chase him around the arena. If you can keep close, Artemis will be too busy running to fight back.

If Artemis starts to spin, run away until his projectiles have landed and then rush back in for some more bombing.

1 BOMB AWAY

Because it's blocking an important path, you'll have to blast the first cannon that you see at the start of this stage. Be aware that only a Pumped Bomb can blow it up.

2 CROSS CANAL

After you've carefully picked your way through a park by blasting a couple of cannons, you'll need to use another Pumped Bomb to bring down an open-air awning.

3 SWITCH HIT

After crossing the canal, head left to a bridge that's close to the top of a staircase. Next, bomb down the bridge and hit the switch on the other side. That will keep water from flowing into the canal.

STAGE 4 LEVIATHAN

TARGET: 00025000

A tackle box isn't necessary for felling this fish, but you will need excellent timing and plenty of Pumped Bombs. Start pumping your bombs when Leviathan is taking a breather, then attack the fish's angler antenna first.

GET YOUR KICKS

If you kick a bomb into a hole, it hits your foe, then rolls off. For a completely stop moving, making it easy to fall into a pit. Kick bombs through holes into places that you couldn't reach otherwise.

4 PUMP & PUSH

In the canal, locate the wall shown below and use pumped bombs to push it back. Once the big wall is in the proper position, it will create a large staircase that Bombberman would be wise to climb.

Leviathan will try to hit you three times with his antenna before backing off. It's his most often used weapon, so bomb it first!

0000430

Try to avoid Leviathan's water bubbles. If you get hit, you'll be paralyzed for a short time.

When Leviathan's wave rushes toward you, face it and push forward to stay ahead the rest.

RED MOUNTAIN

Most of Red Mountain's stages take place over massive pools of magma, so much of your journey through this inferno will involve blasting your way across rickety bridges and narrow railways. Unless you want Bomberman to meet with a fiery finish, you should consider every turn, step, and leap very carefully.

STAGE 1 TARGET: 00014000

1 WAY TO GO!

Fall off the bridge near the stage's start and continue down the stairs shown below. It's a shortcut!

2 DICEY DETOUR

The path to this stone pillar is very precarious, but if you're careful and survive the crossing, you'll be rewarded with Remote Bombs.

BOMBS-A' BURSTIN'

Remote Bombs are great for blowing things that are high off the ground, just lob the bombs up at the object, and detonate them from afar.

Remote Bombs are extremely useful, so look for them in subsequent stages.

Using an aerial bomb, it's easy to see why it's the only way to reach high objects.

3 USE YOUR LEVERAGE

To open the exit, you need to push three levers into the open position. Since they're out of reach, hand-pumped Remote Bombs on top of their handles. Just make sure you don't press the Z Button!

STAGE 3 TARGET: 00015000

1 LIGHTS OUT

While keeping an eye out for mine carts, bomb the base of this spotlight so you can access the staircase behind it.

Wait until a mine cart goes by and then chase it down the tracks. Look for places to pull over and let the cart pass.

4 CUT CORNERS

Use Pumpkin Bombs to destroy the four corner blocks that are holding up the trestle, then cross the tracks to get to the exit door.

STAGE 2 ORION

TARGET: 00020000

Don't engage Orion in close combat or his shock wave will finish you off. Just run away from him and drop bombs behind you.

If Orion grabs you, spin the Control Stick until you break free.

STAGE 4 HADES

TARGET: 00012000

The oversized rust bucket packs a really walloping punch, so be prepared to make a lot of evasive maneuvers.

If Hades begins to spin, you'll be safe as long as you stay between his shoulder and his hand.

Avoid Hades' punch by quickly rotating the Control Stick.

If Hades' eyes begin to flash, dodge his lasers by moving to the right or left side of the arena.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER TO STAGE 30'S POP QUIZ?

You don't have to take a test in Stage 30, but Olaf does need to work his way right and give his Teleport Machine Piece to one of the other Vikings. The three pieces to the Teleport Machine look like a green computer chip, two connected yellow cassettes and a compact disc. Once you have all three pieces, you'll be able to teleport all of the Vikings to the game's final stage.

Pop Quiz! Olaf needs to work his way right through Level 30 and give his Teleport Machine Piece to the other Vikings.

Once they have all three Teleport Machine Pieces, the Lost Vikings can activate the device and move on to Stage 31.

? HOW DO I DEFEAT TOMATOR IN THE FINAL BATTLE? ?

Al of the individual battles between Tomator and the Lost Vikings have been pretty compared to the final confrontation. Move all of the Vikings up the elevator. Switch to Olaf and move up the two ladders and go left until you're standing just beyond Tomator's attack range. Face Tomator with Olaf's shield pointed down. Switch to Erik and make him stand behind Olaf. Now let Baloo join the party and use his Beam Arm to stun Tomator. Keep hitting Tomator to make him slide almost all the way on the right side of the room. Now change to Erik and charge into Tomator. If Tomator is close enough to the ledge, he'll slip into the electrical bolts below.

Move Olaf left until he's just beyond Tomator's range. Remember to keep his shield down.

Baloo's Beam Arm has the range you'll need to stun Tomator without taking any damage.

WHERE DO I FIND THE FLIGHT RECORDER IN STATUE PARK?

The flight recorder will land at a random location at the base of the hill below the helicopter. Janus agents will be waiting to ambush you here, but there's an easy way to get around most of them. Run back down the hill after you wake Natalya, and wait for the flight recorder to land among the stone blocks. You'll have a few seconds to grab the recorder and run before the enemy moves in to attack you.

Wait for Natalya and run back down the hill. The flight recorder will land near these blocks.

WHERE DO I CONTACT VALENTIN IN MISSION 6?

If you're playing the game on Secret or 00 Agent levels, you'll have to contact Valentin Zukowsky before you chase General Ouzonov. Valentin is waiting in a building near the tank. As you leave the Military Archives, turn left and run up the alley. Follow the left wall until you see an open doorway. Search the rooms inside and locate Valentin. While it might seem like you're wasting time, Zukowsky will delay the General, adding several minutes to your mission timer.

Valentin Zukowsky is hiding in a building up this alley. You must find him before chasing Ouzonov.

Near the end of the alley you'll find an open doorway. Search the rooms inside the building.

Your meeting with Zukowsky pays off when he agrees to help you and buys you extra time.

HOW DO I DESTROY THE BOTTLING TANKS WITH THREE MINES?

There is a way to destroy the ten tanks in the Arkangel's Bottling Rooms with three mines. Most players think that the explosion radius can take out two tanks, but the blast is large enough to take out four. Place a mine on the floor between four tanks. Two mines will take out eight tanks, and you can use another mine on the remaining two tanks. If you use up your mines before you reach the Bottling Room, try using your gun, but remember that the leaking fumes are hazardous to your health. If you're trying to beat the 00 Agent Target Time of 2:05, use the remaining mines on the pursuing guards.

Using three mines instead of five to destroy the Bottling Room tanks saves both time and ammo.

Place each mine on the floor between four tanks. Two mines will take out eight tanks.

If the mine blasts don't destroy all of the tanks, you can use your gun on the ones left intact.

HOW DO I REACH THE SUBMARINE IN DEATH ROW?

There's a secret passageway that leads to the submarine. Deactivate the force field door on Cell Block 2, then open the jail door at the end of the hall. ? HOW DO I GET THROUGH THE GEARS IN THE TOXIC DUMP MAZE? ?

Dive back into the lake after you open Door 02. Swim through the open door and enter the control room. Defeat the monsters and press the switch below the control door window. The switch will open a set of double doors. Inside you'll find two rotating gears. As the gears spin, you'll see two gray strips where the teeth are broken off. Swim between the broken teeth and you won't take any damage. You'll be able to surface and catch your breath on the other side of the gears.

After you open Door 02, swim through it and make your way to this control room.

Activate the switch below the control room window and swim to the open double doors.

You'll see two broken teeth on the gears. Swim forward as the broken teeth join together.

? HOW DO I GET TO THE HOLLYWOOD CONVENIENCE STORE? ?

You'll see the convenience store whenever you access a surveillance monitor, but the only way to reach it is through a hidden warp point near the end of the stage. Walk along the ledge next to the exit and search for a hidden door. Inside you'll find a tiny room with a warp point. Warp to the convenience store and make sure you find the secret area behind the office supply shelves. To leave the store, you'll need to press the switch behind the office desk.

You'll see the convenience store on any monitor, but you'll need to find a secret warp to get here.

Scout along the building ledge next to the exit and search for the hidden warp point.

To get back out of the convenience store, you'll need to activate the switch behind this desk.

HOW DO I REACH THE BONUS BARREL IN BLACK ICE BLITZ?

The toboggan run in Black Ice Blitz has plenty of tough shredding, but there's an easy way to get to the Bonus Barrel and other items if you make it to the end of the level. Wait until your toboggan stops at the end of the run, then jump out and run backwards to the second to the last gap you had to jump over. Leap into the Bonus Barrel and collect all of the stars for your Bonus Coin. Then retrace your route and collect everything in the level.

You'll waste a lot of lives trying to sled into this Bonus Barrel. Ride it out and return here on foot.

After you get the Bonus Coin, retrace your route through the entire level and pick up all the items.

? WHERE IS THE BONUS BARREL IN ROCKETEER RALLY? ?

The Bonus Barrel is on a remote ledge on the right side of Rocketeer Rally. From the beginning of the stage, take the two Barrel Cannons up and work your way to the left side of the waterfalls. Stomp on the two roving Kremlings and blast off in the next Barrel Cannon. As the Barrel Cannon starts to lose power, leap to the right and grab the K KONG letter on the ledge. At the far right of the ledge you'll see a Knik-Knak bug hovering in the air next to a banana. Jump off the back of the flying beetle and somersault right to the Bonus Barrel.

From the beginning of the stage, run left and ride the Barrel Cannons up the waterfalls.

As this Barrel Cannon starts to lose thrust, leap to the right and grab the K Kong letter.

- Q: How do I get the best ending?
A: Collect more gems. The most you can find is 52.
- Q: How do I get the Clancol to work?
A: Grab the Clancol and pull it in the opposite direction that you want to go until the coil launches you.

TOP GEAR RALLY

- Q: How do I select saavry weather conditions in two-player mode?
A: You can't. The game's programmers didn't include this option for two-player mode.
- Q: Which car is the best?
A: If you don't have the Helmut Car, stick with the RS model. This car is the most versatile car in the game.

ARKANOID: DO IT AGAIN

- Q: How many planets and rounds are in the game?
A: Three planets and 99 rounds.
- Q: How do I get the ball inside the Gold Block barrier in Round 97?
A: Let one of the bubbles capture your ball. The ball will eventually reappear inside the barrier.

automobili Lamborghini™

Off the line comes a multiplayer racing game from Titus for the N64, full of super-realistic views and tracks, skid marks aplenty, plus a series of hot Lamborghinis itching to melt all the asphalt in sight. Who needs a Greased Lightning when you can rev a Diablo?

Versus Other Racing Games

Automobili Lamborghini combines realistic graphics with a gentle learning curve that will get players up to speed right off the starting line. Having some of the hottest cars in the world, and solid AI controlling your computer opponents, doesn't hurt the excitement level, either. Against the N64 competition of Top Gear Rally and MRC, both of which are realistic rally racers also, Lamborghini can hold its own because of its four-player option, cool cars, intuitive controls, and easy access to all the tracks. Titus packed a lot into these 32 megabits.

So Many Ways to Burn Rubber

There's not just one way to go in Automobili Lamborghini. You can run an Arcade version, racing against time, or go for the trophy and enter the Championship round. There's also a Single Race mode that lets you choose any one of the six tracks you like, or try them all. Each mode (except for the Practice mode) can be played either against the computer or with up to three players swapping paint around the circuits. You also always have the option of reversing the tracks.

ARCADE

In the Arcade mode, there is a series of checkpoints at wider and wider intervals. You get to reach each checkpoint before the time runs out.

CHAMPIONSHIP

You don't need to win each race here to advance, since in Championship mode it's the total of your points that counts. Win the most race points and become the champion (at least of those all).

CIRCUIT

There are six tracks to choose from, ranging from a classic oval to twisting city streets and cliffs. This is a good mode for practicing your skills and getting used to the tracks or just to drive your favorite car.

FOUR CAR PILE-UP

If you can get three other players to plug in, things will get really wild. Each player gets to choose a hot car and select from one of several viewpoints, from behind the car to driver's-eye view. The screen splits in four, so focus on your own slice of the pie. It can be cool watching your friends skid out, but don't take your eyes off the road or you'll crash, too!

So Many Automobiles So Little Time

One of the best parts of any racing game is picking your wheels, and this game's got the top dog: Lamborghini. Car nuts will probably spend anxious hours debating the different models, but most just want to look cool. Within each level, the cars all perform the same, so you can have your pick, but once you win the Arcade or Championship rounds, newer, better performance models are offered. Remember that you can save these autos on your Controller Pak and use them in later rounds.

STANDARD WHEELS

When you start the game, you'll have eight different cars to choose from. Though they may vary greatly in design and color, all of them perform about the same; pretty soon, though, you'll have your favorite. If you have friends over playing multiplayer, don't bother squabbling over who gets "the red one," after all, the point is raw speed.

The standard vehicles you get to pick from are all pretty quick off the starting line and have fairly good handling on the road, but—more to the point—they look cool.

These sleek Italian cars not only look good but they perform as well. Each of these beauties is quick off the line, with high top end and good handling.

SPECIALIZED WHEELS

Practice that Championship mode, because if you're fast and agile enough to make it this far, you'll get to choose from among these vehicles. Besides performance, which is much improved over the Standard picks, these cool body styles represent newer Lamborghini designs. Few of us will ever own one, but at least we get the chance to race a pricey car without worrying about marring the paint job.

HIGH PERFORMANCE WHEELS

And if you're really fast—if, when we say "Mario," you think "Andretti"—you'll be able to beat the Arcade mode and get one of these top-of-the-line racers. With extra high performance and smashing good looks, you'll be burning up more asphalt than a hot summer day. With any of the cars here, try pausing the game and using the "Viewer" to get a 360-degree look at your wheels. It's a good way also to check out the sights, and see who's behind you.

The machines you choose from after winning the Arcade mode are the cream of the crop: they're fast off the line and have high top-end speeds and superior handling. And no, they don't take trade-ins.

Pit Stops

Burning rubber can be literal, since your tires will wear out, and your car will run low. If you're doing only three laps it won't matter, but if you're doing more, you'll need to head in for a pit stop. Usually your team will yell, "We need a pit stop!" in an anxious voice, so watch for blue "Pit Stop" signs and be ready to work with your pit crew.

FUELING UP

Talk about a gasoline crisis! You have to be careful to fill up often or you'll go nowhere fast. Practice with your crew, since controlling the flow of the fuel is the key to a quick pit stop.

Pay close attention to the fuel gauge and the arrow. You want to maintain enough fuel levels to control the car, so keep the arrow pointing to the tank by moving your throttle pedal carefully. Practice your throttle control, since a slow throttle can be costly later on.

CHANGING THE TIRES

After only a lap or so, you'll notice your tires sliding more often, making turns more difficult, and surely you'll hear that "We need a pit stop!" ringing in your ears. Look for the sign just before the starting line.

The picture on the screen tells you what to do: spin your Control Stick clockwise as fast as you can. The best way is to put your palm on top after fueling stops. This lets you spin quickly until the crew members put their hands up and yell, "Clear!"

Tricks of The Tracks

This racer has lots of tracks for you to tackle, six in all, but some are harder than they look. Remember that hitting a wall or another car from behind (no matter how tempting) will slow you down, and speed is the essence here. That's why we've come up with some special tips for each track, including a few hidden shortcuts.

The green arrow indicates a roadster curve, but in this case, it's pretty long. Stay in the left lane and anticipate the turn. Don't let up on the gas on this track.

The red arrow signals a really tight curve. Be ready for it and be sure to make your turn early from the left lane. If you act fast, you won't run into the wall.

Pedal to the metal! You might be thrown by the sudden jolt or the jolt that sends you flying, but don't let it slow you down. Punch the gas and keep the wheel-side down.

TRACK #2

LAP RECORD 00:26:34

Although the arrow says to turn, get out of the crowd by heading straight through the guardrail. You'll get easier turns and catch up with the pack w/out having to fussle for room.

Be ready for this racer's sharp turn. Stay to the inside of the curve, and watch out! The other cars smash themselves into the wall. Hey guys, there wasn't bumper car!

Tough turn! Do a four-wheel slide. Make the turn and tap on the brake to send the rear right-tailing slightly so you'll have a better angle. Push the gas as you slide.

TRACK #3

LAP RECORD 00:48:48

After a triangular concrete building, look for a corrugated wall. It's fake, so drive through, across a parking lot, and out another wall. Head to the right, ahead of the field.

TRACK #4

There's a great shortcut hidden in the forest. It's on the left side, just before the red striped sign. Take it, manage the high wings, and you'll be out.

After the little couple, look for a fork in the road near the mountain. Take the left into a tunnel, avoiding the crowd, and come out clear and ahead of them all.

Try not to slow down just because you want to dodge a wall. Instead, try sticking to the middle of the road here and picking a straight path through all the curves.

TRACK #5

The jump here is far, but you'll immediately have to turn left, so be ready. You'll be in big trouble if you fly at an angle and land all askew, so jump straight on.

TRACK #6

In this series of hairpin turns, the middle one is the trickiest. To stay ahead of the pack, do one of those four-wheel slides (see Track #3) to counteract the curve.

You'll be tempted to swerve back and forth like all the other cars, but when those are just mounds of dirt on the shoulder, pick a straight path and drive right over them.

WHEEL OF FORTUNE

Rejoice Wheel watchers! America's favorite game show has arrived on the Nintendo 64, and we can safely say that you won't find a better version anywhere. So don't make us spell it out for you—step up to the wheel and take a spin!

WHEEL OF FORTUNE

© 1997 Gametek
Wheel of Fortune is a registered trademark of Calton Productions Inc.

YOUR HOST: VANNA WHITE!

You've definitely never seen a home version of Wheel of Fortune like this before! Almost every element of the smash television show has been faithfully reproduced by Gametek, including sets that change with the season, actual human contestants, and even video clips of Vanna White! Short of actually being invited to be on the show, this may be the most realistic Wheel of Fortune game you'll ever experience! And you can share the fun with the whole family, because the new Nintendo 64 Pak allows up to three players to take their turns at spinning the wheel and solving those tricky puzzles.

FEEL THE WHEEL

That's right—thanks to the Nintendo 64 Rumble Pak, you can actually feel the famous wheel as it's spinning. Although it starts off strong, the vibration will actually begin to slow down as the wheel comes to a stop. You'll also feel a mini-rumble "buzz" at other times during the game, such as when you pick a wrong letter or try to solve the puzzle with the incorrect solution. The feedback may sound like a small detail, but it actually adds a lot of fun.

OUR NEW CHAMPION

Forget about those earlier versions of Wheel of Fortune in which the contestants looked not much better than primitive cartoons. Now you can pick from six realistic players to represent you as you attempt to reach the final round. Unfortunately, these players can offer only their attractive faces—your own puzzle-solving skills (and a little luck) are the real keys to winning at the wheel!

I'D LIKE TO SOLVE IT

The primary difference between the game's three skill levels is the intelligence of your opponents. On the easy level, they're likely to choose a lot of incorrect letters. On the hard level, they're better letter pickers and they usually solve the puzzles more quickly. So if you want to win, keep control of the wheel!

The shot on the left shows an easy-level puzzle, while the one above is from the hard setting. While there is a slight difference in puzzle difficulty, your opponents should be your main cause for concern.

I'LL SPIN, PLEASE

Wheel of Fortune for the N64 serves up games in four lengths. You can choose from three-, four-, and five-round games or opt for the full game, which is a timed challenge. If you're quick at solving puzzles, you can play well over five rounds in the full game. If you take more time, you'll play a limited number of rounds.

WHEEL OF FORTUNES PAST

Wheel of Fortune has certainly had a long history with Nintendo, dating way back to 1988 when it made its NES debut. The fact that it's still going strong is real testament to both the greatness of the show and of the game.

RELEASE YEAR	GAME TITLE	SYSTEM
1988	Wheel of Fortune	NES
1989	Wheel of Fortune Junior	NES
1990	Wheel of Fortune: Family Edition	NES
1990	Wheel of Fortune	Game Boy
1992	Wheel of Fortune: Featuring Vanna White	NES & SNES
1994	Wheel of Fortune: Deluxe	SNES

TELL 'EM WHAT THEY'VE WON

Shows below are the wheel's top dollar amounts in each round of the game. If you land on the $10,000 space in round three, you'll get that big bonus only if you pick a correct letter and are the first player to solve the puzzle.

ROUND	$$$
One	$1,000
Two	$2,500
Three	Jackpot & $10,000
Four	$5,000
Everything After Four	$5,000

LET'S MEET OUR CONTESTANTS

Whether you're playing against human or computer opponents, winning in Wheel of Fortune requires straightforward strategies. First, try to be thrifty about buying vowels or you might easily waste a small bundle. Second, even if you can solve the puzzle, it may be better to keep spinning for more cash, especially if you're behind. But the best thing you can do if you're unfamiliar with the game is to change the player settings so that all the contestants are controlled by the computer. That way, you can just sit back and watch a few rounds before taking your turn at the wheel.

If you find that you're lagging behind after the first couple of rounds, try not to fret. You still have plenty of time to catch up with the other contestants. Just remember that the dollar amounts will increase quite a bit in the last rounds, so

WE'LL ADD A JACKPOT SPACE TO THE WHEEL

A special jackpot space is added to the wheel when the third round begins. It's originally worth only $5,000, but when a player spins and lands on a money space, that same amount is put into the pot. The only way to win this bundle is to land on the jackpot and solve the puzzle in the same turn. Don't forget that the jackpot will vanish once the third round is finished.

It can be pretty tough to solve a puzzle if a lot of letters are missing, but if you land on the Jackpot space, you'd better give it your best effort! If you fail, the Jackpot will simply be up for grabs again.

you can still win the game with a little luck and a few good spins of the wheel. Besides, there's always the possibility that the players with the most money will land on Bankrupt, putting the last-place player in the lead.

ARE YOU A WHEEL WATCHER?

The final bonus round is played alone by the contestant who has won the most money by the end of the regular rounds. They're given a puzzle (usually a short one) as well as the letters R, S, T, L, N, and E, which are revealed if they appear in the mystery word. The player then picks three consonants and a vowel, which if correct, will also be revealed on the board. If the player can solve the puzzle in 20 seconds or less, they'll be rewarded with 25 thousand bucks! Try solving the puzzles shown below for practice.

The Lost World

©1995-1997 Nintendo

We finish off our coverage of DKL 3 with complete maps of the Lost World. It's time for the ultimate ape adventure!

Last month, we gave you the scoop on some of the tougher stages and harder-to-find items in Donkey Kong Land 3. Now that you've collected all of the DK Coins from the previous stages and won the first five Clocks from the Brothers Bear, you'll be allowed to enter the Lost World and explore its mysterious interior. Baron K. Roolenstein found his way here before you, and he's strewn a host of dangers and death traps across your path. Luckily for you, our tips and full maps of each stage will give you a fighting chance to defeat the nefarious Baron and save the treasures of the Lost World from his greedy, grimy clutches. Now is not the time to be sitting on your hands, so get moving, little monkeys!

If you're just joining us, you'll be happy to know that DKL 3 features play control that's as good as the Super NES version. DKL 3 is also Super Game Boy compatible!

Whiplash Dash

This first Lost World stage alternates between a sled ride that scrolls automatically and normal side-scrolling action. It's not as particularly long a stage, but it does hold a few surprises, so keep a sharp eye out as you go.

Kuchuka Karnage

The factory is a marvel of advanced engineering, but you'll be too busy dodging the Krumbling creeps to appreciate it. Most of the hazards and enemies are stationary, but that doesn't mean they're any less of a danger. Don't should be your trump of choice in this mechanical madhouse.

Haunted Hollows

Despite what its name implies, Haunted Hollows is not a dark, forested glade but a gloomy cove that is partially underwater. You'll be plagued by all manner of fish and squid during the first half of the stage and a horde of leech-dropping Kreeves in the second. Beware the Ghost Barrel!

Last Stand

K. Rool has taken his ancestral title of Baron K. Roolenstein and now fancies himself some sort of mad scientist. If you want to end his menace once and for all, you'll have to collect six more DK Coins and win one more Clock to open the door to his castle. This battle will be much like the first, but look for a few new attack patterns.

Wrinkly Bros. Bear

The ever-faithful Wrinkly Kong has already set up a refuge for you here in the Lost World, and you can drop in any time to save your game. Not to be outdone, the Brothers Bear have opened a new Sheepy Shop franchise right next door. Pay them a visit and bring a few Bear Coins along to play their card matching game. If you win, you'll receive a valuable watch and other goodies as your reward.

Rainforest Rumble

Most of Rainforest Rumble is a straight shot through a normal side-scrolling stage, but you could probably use the break by now. You'll use Ellie the Elephant through most of the stage, so you might want to spend a little time on your trunk attack technique before you dare venture beneath these leafy boughs.

Barrel Boulevard

We don't know what the Krumplings are making in the Barrel Boulevard factory, but we're sure they wouldn't mind dropping you into a vat and turning you into processed chimp food product! This split-level stage is a bit slightly longer than most, and it comes equipped with an of temple route located near the exit.

Ghoulish Grotto

You'd feel ghoulish, too, if you had to spend much time here! The Barrel has cleverly assigned a platoon of Brackles and a squadron of Kaptans to patrol the dank and dreary cove, but Squawks will be on hand to help you clear the air. Patience and good timing will help you push past the Ghost Barrels to freedom.

Whiplash Dash

Once you pass the "No Sled" sign, you can backtrack on hand and foot to pick up any items you may have missed.

It looks easy, but, at first, we lost a lot of monkeys trying to reach Korl.

Whiplash Dash begins with you in a runaway sled, but unlike many past roller coastered stages, you'll jump out of your vehicle midway through the stage to do some exploring on foot. Once you're over on your feet, hoof it over to the right to retrieve the Steel Barrel and then come back to the left to defeat Korl. That done, jump into the Barrel Cannon to the right to continue your journey. While you're speeding along, use the banana trails to help you time your jumps. In some cases, you may want to hop just a bit early to avoid the Buzzes, especially those on uphill jumps.

Kuchuka Kannaage

Kuchukas are a surly breed that like to sit in one place and lob bombs at you. Though they look intimidating, you can actually walk right through them, even as they're throwing. If you come to the edge of a platform with no rope in sight, just be patient and wait for a few moments to see if a floating platform appears. Avoid blind jumps if at all possible.

Take the high road as much as you can. You'll often have a choice between a platform and a rope. If you take the rope, you'll be able to see the shots fired by the Kurlines near the ceiling. You'll also avoid low-road hazards.

To get to this Bonus Barrel, follow the main path, up to the start line, and use your Barrel Cannon to the left.

There's a BK Barrel up above the start. Once you complete the stage, you'll be able to pick up a partner.

Haunted Hollows

This passage is especially dangerous. If you follow the hints, you'll find a bear at the Loochie.

start

As you float along this passage, you'll find that the best items are up near the ceiling. Once you complete this stage, come back here to stock up on Bear Orbs. You'll find two right near the starting point.

Rainforest Rumba

This Quack's Barrel is just on the edge of the screen, so the bird is seen as you change, or you'll trap right off.

Quick reflexes are essential here. When you jump between platforms, be ready to fire as soon as you land.

Rainforest Rumba looks pretty straightforward, but it's not without its own hazards. You'll spend most of the stage as Ellie the Elephant, and her trunk attack can be a bit awkward to use. Remember that you can press Up or Down on the Control Pad to direct the jet of water from her trunk. You'll be making a lot of blind leaps from platform to platform, and there will often be a Sneek or a Bristle lying in wait for you. Be ready to fire downward as soon as you land.

You might think you're low, fruit, but you'll miss some platforms as this auto lock, Kamekoin, Piripies and Gwerles' steel bows are you call the post.

Keep high to avoid the Kamekoin guard. A Barrel Cannon will launch you into the Ghost Barrel.

Jump into the Ghost Barrel when it appears to launch yourself into the air. The Ghost Barrel will shoot you up to the next ledge, but it will also put you right into a Kamekoin's line of fire.

Hop up out of the water to find the Steel Barrel and Koin.

By this time, you've probably come to trust the banana trails that have led you safely through a myriad of dangers on land, under sea and in air. In Haunted Hollows, however, you'll be better off ignoring these fruit-flavored sign posts. As you make your way through the underwater portion of this stage, ignore the bananas and stick close to the walls and ceilings. You may miss a few handy items, but you'll avoid the majority of the Kremlings, as well.

Choicely and you'll be a little weightier up by that time you reach the halfway point and the Star Barrel. Luckily, you'll also find an [Egg Barrel] at the halfway point to replenish your egg!

Wait for a few moments at the edge of a platform to see if a Kremling appears on the way.

Take a flying leap past the flag and over the gap to find Koin.

Barrel Boulevard

If you take the first alternate route, you'll collect a Bear Coin and a Pig Balloon along the way.

Barrel Boulevard has two alternate routes, the first near the start of the stage and the second near the end. To reach the first alternate route from the start, walk to the left until you get to the first step. Using Dixie, spin up and to the left to an invisible Barrel Cannon. You'll be shot around a bit and then return to the main path just past the letter K.

Ghoulish Grotto

As you descend into the dark depths, flights of Raptors will try to dive-bomb you from above. You can jump onto them to defeat them, but don't strike from the side or from below.

Wait until King appears on the screen to free you and jump up for the Fear Cove. If you jump at the cove as soon as you see it, chances are you'll come down right on top of King's head.

Explore the Bonus Area and then drop into this cave. Barrel Cannon will send you through the wall.

To reach the area of the boat, drop straight down or use the platform.

You'll spend a lot of time in Ghoulish Grotto playing a waiting game with Ghost Barrels, but the rewards will be worth the delays. When using Squawks, you may have trouble getting some enemies into your line of fire. Back off and try to target them from a distance. You can sometimes bounce your shots off the end of a platform to hit your target.

Wait until this Ghost Barrel is plating diagonally up and to the left before you jump in. It will then boost you directly into the Green Barrel. If you fall down the shaft, you'll have to repeat the steps to get another chance at this.

When this Ghost Barrel is going straight up, jump in to boost yourself up to the Top Balcony. Be patient!

Take care on this final stretch. If you have no reservations to slip into one of these Ghost Barrels, it will shoot you directly into the saw blade at a walking pace. You have lots of time, so sit tight until the barrels pull their disappearing acts.

DIDDY KONG RACING

- Rare/64 Megabits
- 1 to 4 players simultaneously
- Controller Pak and Rumble Pak compatible
- 33 tracks (plus mirror tracks)

It's not just a race, it's a Rare adventure for the N64.

Graphics Rare has raised the N64 graphics bar in DKR by using smooth texturing techniques, special lighting effects and Real-Time Dynamic Animation (RTDA). The overall effect is to give players a rich environment that is immersive, surprising and fun.

Play Control Controls for the car and plane are easy to learn and master. Piloting the hovercraft isn't quite as easy, but the challenge makes things more interesting.

Game Design At first glance, you might think that DKR is just a composite of earlier N64 games like Mario Kart 64, Wave Race 64, Pilotwings 64 and Super Mario 64, but the final product stands out as a unique and involving experience. Graphics The adventure game and the many multiplayer options give DKR a lot of replay value. Even if you defeat every track and boss, you can go back and set course records.

Sound Once again Rare shines with the sound effects, speech and music in Diddy Kong Racing. Many of the tunes are quirky, fun and entirely original. The voices of bosses make the game come alive.

Highlights Scott P. N64 games have come a long way in their first year. DKR is proof of it. Henry: Mario Kart owners may overlook it, but they shouldn't. It's very different. Serge: Lots of levels and challenges, but it won't challenge everyone.

CHAMELEON TWIST

- Sensoft/96 Megabits
- 1 to 4 players simultaneously
- Backup memory
- Rumble Pak compatible
- 8 Worlds

A twisted adventure that you can really wrap your tongue around.

GRAPHICS Many of the things you encounter in Twist, such as the characters themselves, are clever and fun. Less fun is the problem of fixed camera angles, which forces you to play through many areas with awkward perspectives. In other places, poor textures make it difficult to locate ramps, walls and platforms.

PLAY CONTROL The controls are just as inventive as the graphics, and much of the innovation has to do with the use of your incredibly versatile tongue. It's not intuitive, but it can be fun once you learn it.

GAME DESIGN Basically a platform game, Chameleon Twist gives players action puzzles and plenty of badies to gobble up. Some of the movement and puzzles are quite innovative.

SATISFACTION Quirky games sometimes offer a nice diversion, and that's what you can expect from Chameleon

Twist. The game is geared to a younger audience, but those players may become frustrated by the camera perspective problems.

EXAMPLE The music varies widely, but all of it is bouncy and repetitive. The effects are standard whoops and bells.

COMMENTS Scott P. It's fun for awhile, but the novelty wears out and the camera angles are a real problem.

Henry: Lots of variety but the overall pace of the game is slow.
Jesse: Gene Simmons, eat your heart out.

AUTOMOBILI LAMBORGHINI

- Titan/32 Megabits
- 1 to 4 players simultaneously
- Controller Pak and Rumble Pak compatible
- 8 cars
- 6 tracks

Take the wheel of one of the hottest production automobiles in existence.

GRAPHICS Lamborghini features realistic tracks and cars, good animation without slowdown when the track gets crowded, and special effects that vary in quality. The lens flares are way too obvious, for example. But the real visual thrill is in the landscape as you stream through villages, past farms and through the European countryside. Can you say Autobahn?

PLAY CONTROL Titan used a solid physics model to create the feeling of sitting behind the wheel of some of the world's fastest production cars. That sense of the road is conveyed in the tight handling and by the Rumble Pak's direct feedback.

FINAL THOUGHTS Unlike Top Gear Rally with its difficult courses, the challenge of Lamborghini is to duel with other cars for first place. The AI is smart and realistic. Titan also included a four-player mode, adding to the party value of this game.

SATISFACTION Automobili Lamborghini may have a funny sounding name, but the racing is serious, and players will have serious fun. You'll have to drive well to win.

SOUND Lamborghini doesn't add much more than standard music and engine sounds.

COMMENTS Scott P. The handling is easier than in Top Gear Rally and the cars are pretty cool. Songs: It felt unfinished. I could have used more tracks and more challenge.

Is it a myth or just mortal mayhem? Power exposes Sub-Zero's past.

GRAPHICS The most impressive graphics are in the cinema scenes that reveal Sub-Zero's story between action stages. MK creator John Tobias created these images for the N64, adopting a dark, brooding style that perfectly suits the game. The rest you've seen before.

PLAY CONTROL Play control has some quirks. Sub-Zero doesn't automatically turn to face enemies, for one thing. You have to turn him around manually. Bad idea. Another oddity is that the game was designed to use the Cross Pad rather than the Control Stick, but you have to use the stick in some areas to run. Talk about confusing. Finally, platform jumping is brutal.

GAME DESIGN It would be a mistake to compare Mythologies to tournament fighters. It's more of a Final Fight style game, and it's richer than most scrolling fighters.

SAFETY ACTION Few MK fans will be able to resist this game's lure, but due to the difficulty of some moves and boss characters, few may complete it.

SOUND Standard grunts and slaps for MK during the fighting and good sound effects

ENTERTAINMENT Henry: More depth than most side-scrollers, but poor game-play balance. Just an ambitious concept, but then so was "Cop Rock." It's awkward and frustrating. Scott P.: Play before you pay.

The fuse is lit on this explosive, multiplayer action game.

GRAPHICS Hudson did a good job, turning the classic game into a full 3-D experience. The camera controls let you move your perspective all around, which is crucial to maneuvering through this open world.

PLAY CONTROL You can kick bombs, pick up and throw bombs, bounce on bombs and, of course, blow them up. Bomberman responds to the Control Stick with analog precision.

GAME DESIGN

With both adventure and battle modes to keep you busy, Bomberman has plenty of replay value. The adventure includes lots of puzzles and some tough bosses, but most of it is not a high energy experience. In contrast, the battle mode is frantic fun.

ENTERTAINMENT Hudson did a good job with the mechanics and design, but breaks little new ground from the 16-bit games. Fans of previous Bomberman games should enjoy it, and there will be plenty of new fans who will discover Bomberman for the first time.

SOUND The fitting music doesn't seem to have anything to do with the game. Other sounds and Bomberman's squawks are on the cute side.

ADDITIONALS Jerry: The sailing ship multiplayer stage is beyond cool, but the adventure was unbalanced. I beat the final boss on the first try and I bet Dan beat it even before that. Don: Multiplayer rules again.

You'd better mind your Ps and Qs if you want to win your fortune on the wheel.

GRAPHICS Gametek included about 10 minutes of Vanna video, which is all the more impressive given the small memory configuration of the Game Pak. The 3-D sets and 2-D contestants leave a lot to be desired, but the flatness of these graphic elements don't really detract from the essential fun of the game.

PLAY CONTROL Play control consists of activating the wheel and moving the cursor to choose letters. No problems here.

GAME DESIGN This really feels like the TV show recreated in N64 format. Gametek did a good job in capturing Wheel and cramming it into 32 megabits. As you might expect, the game is at its best when you play against friends. The computer AI is challenging, particularly if you crank up the difficulty level. Computer opponents know the answer after just a few rounds on the higher levels.

ENTERTAINMENT It's fun, and that's what games are all about. If you like word puzzles like Wheel of Fortune, this N64 version will give you hours of entertainment. If you expect to see Vanna fighting dragons in stunning 3-D, go back to sleep.

SOUND The sound is true to the show and features over ten minutes worth of digitized audio.

CONTROLS Sorry. The puzzles aren't supposed to repeat themselves, but they do if you turn off the game. Jason. Embarrassing fun.

PAK WATCH

THE INSIDE SOURCE ON FUTURE GAMES

This month's Pak Watch is filled with plundered pics from Forsaken, Nagano Winter Olympics '98 and many more upcoming titles like Acclaim's baseball game, (never before seen) and the latest on Wario Land 2 from Nintendo. As an added bonus, we have an inside look at Boss Studios' Twisted Edge Snowboarding.

FORSAKEN

Imagine that a fusion experiment gone wrong on earth has devastated the entire solar system and that the remnants of human civilization have been declared open territory for galactic scavenging. Now imagine that you have come to the charred remains seeking your fortune. In Forsaken from Acclaim, you won't have to imagine it. It seems very real. Players take on the role of intergalactic opportunists on futuristic pionscycles. They'll have to battle human mutants in the remaining earth colonies, avoid traps, bust down doors and earn big bucks from the plunder. With 15 areas and 15 bikes, Forsaken has a lot of high-speed territory to cover, but it's not a racer like Extreme-G. This game has more the feeling of Descent. The AI is particularly interesting since enemies respond to attacks based on the type of weapons that you're using. Although the screen shots shown here were taken from the PC version of Forsaken, which is in development at Iguana U.K. along with the N64 game, Acclaim assures us that the graphics are virtually identical. Some of the graphic eye candy includes individual light sourcing and a cool missile cam.

NAGANO WINTER OLYMPICS '98

The Olympic games started early here at Pak Watch. Konami just sent us an 80% version of the upcoming multi-sport game for the N64 and we immediately dropped everything else. Our virtual Olympics began with Downhill skiing and moved on to cover each of the eleven other sports including curling, luge, bobsled, 1500 meter speed skating, 500 meter speed skating, giant slalom snowboard, halfpipe snowboard, freestyle skiing, ski jumping 120 meter, ski jumping 90 meter, and alpine skiing giant slalom. Each event takes place in a 3-D environment based on the real runs or sites in Nagano, Japan where the Olympics will be held.

Since the various sports require an assortment of controller styles, the control functions pop up before each event—very handy, even though some of the controls are pretty tricky to master. Unlike some previous Olympic games, Nagano looks to be a real challenge. The competition level of the computer challengers seems truly elevated. You can play the Olympic mode and compete for medals in individual events or try the Championship mode in which you compete in every sport. One to four players can compete alternately and games can be saved on your Controller Pak. Although the game is supposed to make use of the Rumble Pak, as well, this version didn't support it. Overall, the game looks sharp and includes some great special effects like reflections in the ice. Some of the non-glamor sports such as curling were a real surprise, and very fun. Who would have thought that N64 curling would be big! Nagano Winter Olympics '98 is on its way to North America and should be here in time to go for the gold in February. Let the games begin.

TUROK FOR GAME BOY

Turok: Battle of the Bionosaurs for Game Boy doesn't have to take a back seat to its big brother for the N64. Bit Masters put together an excellent action-packed game for Acclaim featuring the heroic champion of the Lost World (no relation to the game from THQ noted elsewhere.) Turok uses a ton of weapons as he battles through intricate, side-scrolling stages with lots of vertical sections. He encounters many of the items and enemies first seen in the N64 game, so the basics of this Turok adventure will seem familiar even in side-scrolling format. Excellent play control and good graphics don't hurt, either. The Turok character looks good and moves with precision. For Game Boy veterans who are looking for something new this holiday season, Turok fills the bill. You should be able to find it in stores by December and Nintendo Power will give you some strategic help in next month's issue.

SNOWBOARD KIDS

Atlas has scooped the world on N64 snowboarding action, and we're here to tell you that Snowboard Kids is very cool. Unlike the snowboarding events in Nagano Winter Olympics '98 and Twisted Edge Snowboarding, Snowboard Kids takes more of a Mario Kart 64 approach. You pick up items such as soda cans to throw at your opponents as you race down one of six courses. Not only do you need to go fast, but you should also throw in some stunts to add to your point total. Up to four players can join in the mayhem in the Battle mode while the Skill mode and Time Attack are for single players. Atlas is bringing this game out in Japan, but has not decided on its North American release quite yet. The good news, however, is that Atlas has already translated the game into English, so it can't be too far away. The version we played at Pak Watch was finished except for the translation, and it felt polished. The Rumble Pak worked great and the use of items kept things fresh on every run, even as we got to know the courses. The courses themselves range from typical snowy downhill to fantasy grass courses. At times, you slip along narrow cliff edges while in other areas you find yourself being flung into the air by giant ramps. Clearly, Atlas designed this game for fun. The cartoonish characters reflect this, as well. Each of the five characters has his or her own personality and special moves or stunts. Our best guess is that Snowboard Kids won't be out before January or February, but that could change. We'll keep you up-to-date.

WWF: RAW IS WAR

Is the N64 big enough for two wrestling federations? That question will be answered when Acclaim's WWF: Raw Is War meets THQ's WCW Vs. NWO: World Tour this winter. WCW Vs. NWO will have the edge by getting to the stores first, but WWF may give it quite a run when it becomes available. Our confidence is based on several things. First, Sculptured Software is doing the development and their track record is like, and so far all the game testers have been excited. We hope to get our paws on WWF in the near future to confirm that. The second reason for optimism is the quality of WCW. The designers at Sculptured know that they have to make a fun game if they hope to compete. Both licenses will attract fans, but neither is overpowering. For now, here are the facts. WWF will support one to four players and more than a dozen WWF wrestlers with 300 moves. The wrestlers include the Undertaker, Shawn Michaels, British Bulldog, and Sharmock. The N64 version will feature Royal Rumble action and grudge matches. According to Acclaim, the play control will avoid the button mashing of past WWF titles. THQ isn't scared, but it looks like there's going to be a war on the N64.

was impressive on the Super NES. The animations in this new game are very

THE LOST WORLD

The other Game Boy action blockbuster this year is based on Michael Crichton's sequel to Jurassic Park. The Lost World from THQ puts you on the second island off the Central American coast, lightly armed and facing real dinosaurs. In each side-scrolling stage, you'll have to fulfill mission requirements in addition to staying alive. That's going to be the tough part, because the dinoes are hungry and they're fast. As soon as we popped a finished version of the game into our Game Boy, we became a raptor's breakfast. The phrase, "Something has survived," doesn't seem to be in reference to players. Fortunately, passwords let you save progress once you manage to make any and the graphics are interesting and varied so that you want to see what's next. This game is bound to sell like hot cakes, or N64s, this holiday season when it's released. If you want it, you'd better start looking in early December.

BOSS GAME STUDIOS

BOSS GETS TWISTED

Your intrepid Pak Watch reporter always enjoys trips to Boss Games, the N64 developers of Top Gear Rally and now Twisted Edge Snowboarding. It's not just that Colin Gordon and his talented crew of programmers, designers and artists produce cutting-edge games.

And it's not just that Boss Games is right here in Redmond, Washington, one of the great gaming capitals of the world. No, it's because Boss employees maintain a five-page list of poisonous insects, reptiles and other critters right in their offices. (At Nintendo, we aren't allowed to keep anything more frightening than a stuffed Yoshi.) So for thrills and chills, Boss is the place to go. And as it turns out, thrills and chills are exactly what the team working on Kenico's Twisted Edge Snowboarding has in mind.

ALL ABOARD

Kenico decided to team up with Boss Games for its second title while Top Gear Rally was still in development. Clearly the association works. For Twisted Edge Snowboarding, much of the design specs came from the development team at Kenico in Japan. For instance, Kenico wants the game to have characters with history and personality.

"This isn't a straight simulation of snowboarding," says Colin

Gordon, VP of Product Development at Boss Games. "There's a complete story mode, sort of along the lines of Street Fighter II, with eight international characters competing head-to-head for the title of champion. There's a burly Russian, an evil German, a California slacker, a stodgy Brit, and a heroic Japanese guy." (We suspect his name is Ryu.) "The story mode is really pretty funny," Colin continued. "In the North American version of the game, we're going to keep it hidden as a special bonus. But the new game will still emphasize fun and there's an arcade feel that's a struggle win."

But the new game will still emphasize fun and there's an arcade feel that's a struggle win.

Brian Johnson is the man in charge of seeing that Kenico's vision of snowboarding fun is realized. Brian is both the lead artist and designer of Twisted Edge. Combining these two positions in one person is not something you find at most game development houses. "It's made possible at Boss," explained Colin, "because Brian and our other artists/designers have such a strong gaming background. It's one of the things we look for." Brian isn't alone, of course. Chris Pink, the lead programmer, has been busy creating specialized animation engines and track design tools. (More on this later.) Each of the game's seven courses is assigned to a separate artist for creation from the ground up, so to speak. Even more artists work on the main characters and their animation and a sound specialist creates sound effects and music for the game.

From top to bottom, meet the heads of some of Twisted Edge's creative team: Rob Povey, technical director; John Sullifer, stage design artist; Mary Ann Fairbury, character and animation artist; and Chris Pink, lead programmer.

Heading up game development at Boss Games is the gracious prankster, Colin Gordon, a veteran of the development wars whose guests are greeted warmly by a huge, hairy, black spider that drips on their heads at his office door. Although they've produced games on other systems, the N64 is the platform of choice for Colin and his crew.

CREATURE FEATURES

So what will you find in this boarding beast when it hits the slopes of Consumer Mountain this March or April?

First of all, you'll find a game that packs a lot more into each of the seven runs than you would find on any real mountain. The areas don't try to recreate real snowboarding (or skiing) sites because reality is just too boring. "Each run will probably last three or four minutes and will be packed with places for picking up speed and other places with ramps for stunts, or half-pipes, or other types of terrain," explained Bran. You'll be able to choose different characters, different boards, and difficulty settings. The main mode is one player competition, a tournament that will test your stunt skills and speed on all seven tracks and a possible bonus track. A special mode emphasizes stunt scoring on a big jump track that has continuous jumps so you can perform endless stunts. In addition to these modes, and the hidden story mode, there will be a two-player Vs. mode, a practice mode, a stunt scoring mode and a four-player alternating or sequential mode.

Boss plans on packing all of this game play into a 64-megabit Game Pak with Rumble Pak and Controller Pak compatibility. The analog Control Stick will give players the ability to move on the snow and in the air, controlling sideways spins by pushing left and right and rolling forward or backward by pushing in those directions. The further you push, the greater the speed of the spin or roll.

MAKING TRACKS

Designing games is a complicated business, so making it less complicated is one of the main goals. At Boss Games, they decided to create a powerful course editor that each of the artists could use when putting together the tracks of Twisted Edge.

Chris Pink created a sweet tool that works with Alias software, allowing anyone to input track and slope curves that will bend a 3-D object along the path. What this means is that the artist can start with a straight 3-D track, concentrating on where to put bumps, jumps, overcuts of rock or overhanging canyon walls, without having to worry about tweaking slope and turns, which are essentially gaming elements. Once the physical surface of the track is created, they can adjust curves and slope with this super track-o-matic tool just by shifting a few points on a line. "It's great because you don't have to rebuild the track models every time you want to adjust something for game play," Bran says. "It would be even better with the DD since you could include the track editor in the game and players could twist courses any way they wanted."

Boss Games is clearly moving ahead, planning for future games and, like all top developers, unwilling to rest on its laurels. "We learned a lot from Top Gear Rally," said Rob Powey, Technical Director at Boss, "and one of the things that we learned is that you have to keep pushing forward. We'd like to do another racing game and include all of the things we wanted to include in TGR but couldn't." Rob and Colin indicated that Boss Games has several more N64 projects in the early stages including a racing game and an adventure. The twisted edge, it seems, may not be so far away from the cutting edge.

Julia Kazda is the official snowboarding expert working on the game. Not only is he designing courses and keeping everyone honest to the sport, he also finds time to add to his extensive collection of great toys. Julia once worked at Nintendo as a Game Play Counselor—pretty good training for walking on the edge.

ALL-STAR BASEBALL '98

Next year could turn out to be the golden age for N64 baseball fans. In addition to the much-anticipated Ken Griffey Jr. title from Nintendo, several other publishers are set to put their stamp on the nation's pastime, including Acclaim Entertainment. Acclaim's development team at Iguana Entertainment is in the middle of development for this polygonal baseball sim featuring the MLB and MLRPA licenses. Tentatively titled All-Star Baseball '98, the game will focus on variety and realism. For instance, you'll find 100 batter stances ranging from Cal Ripken Jr.'s standing-tall stance to Ricky Henderson's cat-like crouch. But the most ambitious feature may be that individual players will be scaled to the correct proportions of real players and will be texture mapped with that player's features. So when Frank Thomas steps up to bat, you'll know it. All-Star Baseball will have Spring Training mode, Full Season, Playoffs, World Series, and a Home Run Derby. Player statistics are from Stats Inc. and cover 60 categories. The photo shown here were taken from the PC version, which is a little ahead of the N64 game in the development cycle, but the two games are quite similar. In a recent trip to Iguana, your Pak Watch editor got to see some of the N64 baseball game on N64 emulators, and it looked impressive. At this point, all we can say is, let's play ball.

WARIO LAND 2 DMG

The biggest adventure ever for Game Boy is pushing toward completion. Wario Land 2, an 8 megabit Game Boy game, is already being translated into English for an anticipated release date in February or March. In this vast, 50 stage adventure, pirates have stolen Wario's stash of treasure and Nintendo's best bad boy is enraged. Wario doesn't use hats to change his abilities in this game. Instead, he relies on changing conditions caused by enemy attacks. For instance, if a zombie hits him, Wario turns into a zombie, or if he gets decked by a cake, Wario turns into fat Wario. In certain stages, Wario will have to be in some altered state to complete the stage. The game also features multiple paths that change according to what you do in the game, giving it a lot of replay value and at least several different endings. At the end of it all, Wario will find himself in a sticky situation in Syrup Castle, facing the leader of the pirates, but along the way, he can use the coins that he collects to enter bonus games.

NHL HOCKEY '98

THQ and EA Sports refuse to leave Super NES players out in the cold this year. With NHL Hockey '98, they bring the cold rinks of the NHL right into your home. This year's entry features both the NHL and NHLPA licenses. Players can select Exhibition mode, full Season mode, Practice, Skill Challenge and Shoot Out. The new Skill Challenge gives you a chance to hone your puck-handling skills as well as shooting. Many of the features will be familiar to players of last year's entry, but rosters and logos have been updated and the Canadian national anthem plays when matches are held in Canadian cities. Control remains excellent and the graphics are sharp. It looks like a worthy finale to a great series. Since it will probably be the final NHL game for the Super NES, collectors and fans should consider this when they go out to buy NHL '98 in December. It may disappear pretty quickly.

CRAVE ENTERTAINMENT

A new N64 publishing and developing company has been formed from two separate companies. Big Rain and SVG joined forces recently to create Crave Entertainment. Crave hopes to publish games acquired both here and in Japan in the North American market. They'll begin with Robotron 64 from Player One. In addition to picking up titles for the N64, Crave plans to begin development of N64 titles at its Seattle office. Many of the 20 or so programmers, designers and artists at Crave are veterans of Square Soft and big RPG fans. One of their first projects may well be an RPG for the N64. Crave also has close relationships with Player One and Interplay. Already, a second Player One N64 title is in the works, Milo's Bowl-a-zama, and there could be news from Crave and Interplay, as well.

INSIDER UPDATE

N64 UPDATE

Natsume, the king of quirky, underground hits, plans to pick up Sumo 64, a sumo wrestling game from Bottom Up in Japan and introduce it to the North American audience. Once again, Natsume proves that you don't have to be big to be courageous. The gamble on Harvest Moon for the Super NES has paid off in strong confusing sales and interest, and plans for a new Game Boy Harvest Moon are moving ahead. (Currently, the game is scheduled for an April release.) But can Natsume find the same success with sumo, a sport that is almost as incomprehensible to most North Americans as Cricket? If anyone can do it, Natsume can. The reports from Japan are that Sumo 64 is a very fun game. We've seen early demos here, as well, and it looked promising.

Elsewhere on the Japanese game front, ASCII seems to be considering the possibility of publishing AeroGauge, its futuristic, N64 racer here in North America and Hudson Soft has been working on polishing up Dual Heroes and Last Legion DX. At Nintendo, development continues on several Pocket Monster projects for the N64 including a link that will allow Game Boy pocket monsters to be rendered in 3-D on the N64. The Pocket Monster phenomenon continues to grow in Japan, where the Game Boy RPG has sold more than five million copies, rivaling the Dragon Quest and Final Fantasy series. Plans to introduce Pocket Monsters to North America should be finalized soon and English language Pocket Monsters may be the big fad here next fall.

Closer to home, Pak Watch will be receiving the first playable version of FIFA: Road to the World Cup '98. Our inside man at EA Sports reports that this N64 soccer game will include all the refinements that they wanted to put into the original FIFA 64. After that, it's anyone's guess which EA Sports title will turn up, but the tentative plan includes Andretil Racing, Nascar Racing, Madden '99, NBA Live '98, NHL Hockey '98, and Need For Speed. That's practically the entire EA Sports lineup.

Other new N64 games that are now in the works include Lego Racers, an on-again, off-again project under development at High Voltage Software. In this game, players will build their own cars from virtual Lego materials, then race them in a Mario Kart-style game. Lego has plans for another seven titles featuring their popular building blocks. At MGM Interactive, Return Fire II has been added to the list along with Dragon Storm. Ocean is now planning to do a Looney Tunes game and may pick up Imagineer's fighting game, Fighter's Destiny, for North American release. At Virgin Interactive, the long-delayed Freak Boy project has, apparently, been given a new lease on life with a new producer. We expect to see something soon, but we've learned not to hold our breath on news of this game. And finally, at Titus, Virtual Chess II should follow Automobili Lamborghini as the second N64 title. An early version of the game received at Nintendo was so hard, though, that you would have to be a world-ranked chess player to compete against it. Titus is now working on new AS, or Artificial Stupidity, to make the game accessible for the rest of us poor slobs.

Our goal is to try and preserve classic videogame magazines from years gone by before they are lost forever.

*Thanks goes out to all the people who make this possible.
From the original editors and writers, to everyone involved in acquiring and digitizing these magazines.*

*People interested in helping us out, in whatever way possible.
Either by donating classic magazines, scanning, editing or distributing them, visit us at <http://www.retromags.com>*

We are only interested in preserving classic magazines that are at least 5 years out of print.

*We have no desire or intention to profit from these in any way.
So please, if you come across people trying to sell these releases, don't support them!*

Thank You and ENJOY!
